New Jersey To Pull Out Of Viet War

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Military sources said today the world's only active battleship—the USS New Jersey—will depart in March after a six-month tour off the coasts of North and South Vietnam and may not return to the war.

The sources said her departure does not represent a de-escalation of the allied war effort.

But after six months in Long Beach, Calif., for repairs, maintenance and retraining of her crew, the 56,000-ton battlewagon may not be needed in Vietnam, depending on the progress of the Paris peace talks, the sources said.

The New Jersey was brought out of mothballs in 1967 as a $50 million experiment to test the effectiveness of her 16-inch guns against targets in North Vietnam. The United States was then escalating its bombardment of the North, and the Navy said the 23-mile range of the New Jersey's guns would cover many of the targets then being hit by warplanes. Use of the battleship could reduce American jet plane losses then running about one a day, the Navy explained.

By the time the New Jersey arrived in Vietnam last Sept. 30, President Johnson had limited air and surface bombardment of North Vietnam to the country's narrow southern panhandle. The Pentagon said the battleship's big guns were still needed to hit well entrenched North Vietnamese artillery which was harassing the U.S. and South Vietnamese posts below the demilitarized zone.

A month later Johnson halted all attacks on the North, and the enemy artillery attacks from above the DMZ stopped. Since then the battleship has made occasional attacks on North Vietnamese bunkers and antiaircraft guns in the DMZ which attacked U.S. reconnaissance planes. She also has bombarded shore targets in South Vietnam in support of American or South Vietnamese ground troops. A number of military experts consider that the U.S. 7th Fleet's

Common Ground Believed Near In Viet Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — The adversaries in the Vietnam peace talks may be on the extreme edge of the common ground which U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declares is necessary for a start toward a settlement.

That is the cautious impression U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators formed after Thursday's weekly meeting.

The allied negotiators found three encouraging signs during and after the weekly encounter:

1. The North Vietnamese have shifted the focus of their publicly expressed interest onto a terrain chosen by Lodge. Instead of emphasizing that the United States and the Saigon government must accept the political demands of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy moved to the forefront his insistence that the United States unconditionally withdraw its troops from South Vietnam. Thus North Vietnam is now treating a military question as the No. 1 issue on an unfixed agenda.

Although Thuy declared that the U.S. withdrawal must be made without conditions, observers saw the possibility of a parallel with the negotiations for a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Hanoi then insisted publicly that the bombing halt must be unconditional but later made secret concessions.

A similar compromise to provide mutual troop withdrawals also is considered possible.

From the beginning of the four-party talks, Lodge has urged that measures of military de-escalation be the first order of business.

2. Lodge tried hard to reassure the other side that the Report By Moscow Deplored On Pact's East German Plans

BONN (AP) — The West German government today declared its determination to hold its presidential election in West Berlin despite the scheduling of Soviet bloc maneuvers in East Germany and a suggestion from the small Free Democratic party that the vote be held somewhere else.

"The federal government stands firm to its decision in favor of Berlin," the government deputy chief spokesman, Conrad Ahlers, told a news conference.

Ahlers deplored the announcement in Moscow that the Warsaw Pact armies would stage maneuvers in East Germany early in March.

The date and the exact location of the war games were not given in the official announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency. But presumably they will coincide with the presidential election West Germany will hold on March 5 in West Berlin, a demonstration of West Germany's claim to Berlin which has brought new East German restrictions on traffic between the city and the West and strenuous protests from the Russians and the East Germans.

Tass said the maneuvers would be held "in the central and western regions of the German Democratic Republic." This indicated an area of operations between West Berlin and the West German border, 110 miles west of the city.

Heavy Soviet tank and troop movements into East Germany were reported by travelers arriving in Prague Thursday. They said they saw long columns of trucks and tanks moving through northwest Bohemia toward the East German border.

Last month the North Atlantic Treaty Command staged military maneuvers in West Germany within 15 miles of the Czechoslovak border.

The Communists began new saber rattling over West Berlin on Feb. 9 when East Germany announced a ban on all surface travel to the city by the members of the West German federal assembly, which will elect the president.

The East Germans control the land, water and rail routes to the Communist-surrounded city but the air corridors are still under the control of the four postwar occupation powers—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union. It is assumed that the presidential electors will travel by plane, although there have been unconfirmed rumors that the Communists would harass the air lanes also.

Since the travel ban announcement, the Western allies have reaffirmed their support for West Germany's election plans by word and gesture.

Timing, Logistics To Play Major Role

Thousands Helped Chart Nixon's Route In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon goes abroad Sunday he will follow a route prepared by some 70 advance men and thousands of foreign policemen whose chief worry will be student demonstrators and—as a Scotland Yard official put it—"the odd man out."

Despite massive security precautions, timing and logistics will play a major role in Nixon's initial and possibly crucial contacts with leaders in Great Britain, France, West Germany, Belgium and Italy.

Detailed trip planning actually began Feb. 8 when the 70 advance men left Washington for Europe aboard Air Force One, the presidential jet. Led by White House counsel John D. Erlichman, the contingent included representatives of the State Department, National Security Council, White House Communications Agency and the Secret Service.

At the controls was the new presidential pilot, Lt. Col. Ralph D. Albertazzie. His job was to follow the same route Nixon will follow, practicing landings and the way.

Erlichman's assignment was to make certain Nixon will see the people he wants to see—including some private citizens—and such selected landmarks as the stark Berlin Wall. Erlichman acted as the President's personal schedule maker.

Robert Hodak of the National Security Council staff made the advance trip to lay the groundwork for the serious talks Nixon will have with allied leaders.

The State Department official, John Thomas, went along to iron out administrative details, such as waiver of customs inspections as the chief executive and his party move from country to country.

Ray Zook of the White House Transportation Office was responsible for finding hotel space, buses and autos for the presidential group. For the Bonn stop alone, Zook lined up rooms in 18 hotels.

Doesn't Endorse Popular Vote

Electoral Reform Urged By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has called for limited electoral reform, but has stopped short of endorsing the direct popular vote system that has wide backing in Congress.

Observing that the present electoral vote system "is deeply rooted in American history," Nixon cautioned Congress against trying to abolish it.

Instead, he said in a message to Congress Thursday, electoral reform should aim at dividing each state's electoral vote "in a manner that may more closely approximate the popular vote than does the present system."

Nixon thus threw his support to some form of proportional disribution of the electoral vote, a reform generally backed by conservatives as an alternative to the one-man, one-vote approach of the direct popular election.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., leading backer of the direct popular vote, reserved comment on the Nixon message, sent up to Capitol Hill late in the day.

But Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Nixon's message would give impetus to "long-awaited congressional action" to bring about reform of the electoral college system.

Nixon said in the past he has favored dividing the electoral vote among the presidential candidates in the same proportion as they divide a state's electoral vote, but that he is not endorsing any specific plan now.

One suggested plan, which Nixon did not rule out, calls for awarding one electoral vote for each congressional district carried by a candidate, with two votes going to the statewide popular winner.

Under either of these plans Nixon would have defeated John F. Kennedy in 1960, although under the proportional plan he would have fallen seven votes short of the 270 electoral voted needed for a majority.

In his message to Congress Nixon proposed dealing with such a problem by providing that a winning candidate need get only 40 per cent of the electoral vote to become president.

If no candidate gets 40 per cent, he said, there should be a nationwide popular run-off election between the two top candidates.

Nixon also proposed eliminating the individual electors who now cast their state's ballots in

County Mayors Will Meet With Delegation In Stark

LISBON — Seven Columbiana County mayors voted Thursday afternoon to appoint a "Council of Government" bylaws committee to meet with a similar group from Stark County next Friday noon at the mayor's office in Alliance.

Don Eckert, East Liverpool Planning coordinator, presided in the absence of Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis, who called the meeting. Bettis was trying a criminal case at the time.

The mayors followed the prosecutor's recommendations for five of the committeemen: Mayors George E. Willshaw of East Liverpool, Dean Cranmer of Salem and Dale Kampfer of Columbiana, County Commissioner Charles J. Gause and Bettis. They added Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan at the suggestion of Mayor Robert Harding of East Palestine.

The committee will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the commissioners' office in preparation for the Alliance meeting.

Except for the sheriff, the committee includes officials who have had previous meetings with Stark County officials relative to creating a COG to administer federal funds available under the "Safe Streets Act" of 1968.

Eckert brought the mayors up to date on what has transpired. He said the Ohio Urban Affairs Department is to administer the funds statewide in 15 districts, with Columbiana and Stark counties designated as District 8.

Although one COG was proposed for the district originally, the outcome of a meeting last Friday at Canton was that each county would form a COG and

Judge Denies Acquittal Bid In Shaw Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Judge Edward A. Haggerty threw out a defense motion for a directed verdict of innocent in the Clay Shaw conspiracy trial today and ordered Shaw's attorneys to begin presenting their case.

The first witness called by the defense was Marina Oswald Porter, widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man named by the Warren Commission as the lone assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Shaw has been charged by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison with conspiring to kill Kennedy.

"The motion for a directed verdict is denied," Haggerty announced as court opened this morning.

Striking Coal Miners Hint Capitol March

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP)—Nearly 10,000 miners in southern West Virginia's coal fields were off the job today in a demonstration that some said would lead to a massive march on the state Capitol next week.

The number of men who refused to work since the protest began Tuesday grew today with approximately 4,000 men joining other miners in wildcat walkouts.

Investigation Continues In Newell Blaze

An investigation continued today into a fire which caused an estimated $7,000 damage to a storage shed at the Ohio Brass Co. on Harrison St., Newell, Thursday about 4:45 p. m.

Eighteen Newell volunteer firemen who fought the blaze were hampered by smoke. They were on the scene four hours.

The fire-hit building is not connected to the main plant of the company.

Loss to the building was estimated at $2,000 and to contents $5,000. The building contained wooden slats stacked six to eight feet high and used for packing.

Spring-Like Weather Continues For Area

Everyone is talking about the weather and no one is interested in doing anything about it — things being almost perfect the way they are for this time of the year.

The forecast calls for increasing cloudiness and not quite as cold tonight.

More cloudy skies are due Saturday, with little change in temperature.

Readings will average near normal through Wednesday, with highs in the upper 30s to upper 40s and lows in the 20s.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman was taken by ambulance to a hospital late Thursday night, suffering from what a spokesman said was inflammation of the stomach and intestines.

Dreves said Truman was afflicted with gastroenteritis.

Dreves said an ambulance took Truman to the hospital between 10 p.m. and midnight from his home in nearby Independence, Mo. Members of Truman's Secret Service detail rode with him.

Ex-Resident Loses Life In Plane Crash

The Navy said today a former East Liverpool resident was killed when the plane he was flying crashed into the Atlantic Ocean shortly after it was launched from an aircraft carrier.

Lt. Comdr. Richard Albert Bright, 35, of Albany, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Bright of 165 N. Surrey Rd., was identified as the pilot of a Vigilante reconnaissance plane which crashed after being launched from the carrier John F. Kennedy near Cape Hatteras, N. C.

He is survived by his wife and five children. Bright was assigned to Heavy Attack Squadron 14 of the Naval Air Station at Albany.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Hospital spokesmen declined to give further details on Truman's condition, but said he is under the care of his long-time physician, Dr. Wallace Graham.

Truman has not been to his office in the Truman Library at Independence for more than a year, but his long-time secretary, Miss Rose Conway, said she worked with Truman at his home Wednesday morning, when Truman prepared an announcement that Chief Justice Earl Warren will become chairman of the board of overseers of the Harry S. Truman International Center for the Advancement of Peace in Jerusalem.

The former president's most recent public appearance was when Vice President Humphrey and Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, visited him on a campaign swing last fall.

Talks

United States shares their expressed view that a final settlement ought to conform to the spiri of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam.

Taking Thuy's words at the previous session as his own, Lodge affirmed: "We support the principles of sovereignty, independence, unity and territorial integrity" of Vietnam.

Thuy had enumerated these points as essential facets of the agreements which ended France's war in Indochina.

Lodge said he hoped Hanoi and the NLF would consider closely what he had said.

3. The final encouraging sign was a matter of atmosphere.

At their news conferences after the session, the spokesmen for North Vietnam and the NLF appeared less strident and acrimonious than they had after previous meetings. There was less name calling and no desk thumping at all.

ace to admit six American photographers to record Nixon's meeting with Queen Elizabeth II. The British had thought two would be sufficient.

At each city along the advance route, communications specialists and Secret Service agents peeled off to continue detailed planning. They will remain at their temporary posts until after Nixon's return.

Among the problems facing the Secret Service advance men in preparing for threatened student demonstrations in London and West Berlin, but thousands of police and troops will be on duty in Bonn, Paris, and Rome, too.

Besides student demonstrators, American and European security men also are concerned about individual fanatics. Scotland Yard has sent a list of all potential troublemakers, including continental agitators, to immigration officials.

Banquet Held By Cub Pack

James McGowan, chairman of the Cherokee District committee, was guest speaker during the Blue and Gold awards banquet for Cub Pack 43 Tuesday night in the LaCroft Elementary School.

Robert Arnold, toastmaster, introduced John Hill, cubmaster, Charles Watson, assistant, and Miss Elizabeth Coleman, school principal. He also recognized and honored the following den mothers and den chiefs: Mrs. Norine Dickey and Jim Corbette, Den 1; Mrs. Jean Gibbs and Jeff Wheeler, Den 2; Mrs. Doris Arnold and Kris Garen, Den 4; Mrs. Marge Lerussi and Steve Unger, Den 5, and Watson, assistant cubmaster, Webelos.

Group singing was held. Knot tying, first aid, flag and Morse code signals were demonstrated by Boy Scout Troop 43 under the direction of Alvin Dickey, scoutmaster.

Michael Wolf, a member of the Webelos, received the highest award of the outfit and advanced to Boy Scout rank.

Others who were awarded badges, patches and arrows by Hill were Jeff Atwood of Den 1, wolf silver arrow; Randy Gibbs of Den 2, wolfe; Randy Adams of Den 4, wolf; Jim Hutchison, wolf, wolf gold arrow; and Tim Arnold, wolf gold arrow, wolf silver arrow; David Dailey of Den 5, wolf badge and denner stripe; Bobby Potts, wolf silver arrow; Lee Lerussi, wolf silver arrow, and David Delaney, assistant denner stripe.

In the Webelos group, recipients were Jeffrey Gibbs, two-year pin; Jeffrey Boyd, denner stripe and one-year pin, and Wayne Saling, two-year pin.

Mayors

The Columbiana group expressed interest only in the field of crime control, while Stark County, farther advanced in planning, hopes to use other facets of COG.

District 8 is eligible for $16,036 in federal funds for planning in the field of crime control including training, equipment and even construction.

Gause pointed out that this money must be applied for before July 1. District 8 would be expected to add 10 per cent of the grant or $800 for each COG, although this can be "in-kind" service instead of cash, it was explained.

Federal funds would be available for approved programs, with each COG participating financially or in-kind according to formulas worked out by the state for the various programs.

Mayors attending were Cranmer, Kampfer, Harding, Clyde B. Pike of Lisbon, Dan Cullinan of Leetonia, Frank Davidson of Washingtonville and Ernest Phillips of Summitville.

Also present were County Commissioners Gause, James W. Boyd and R. Max Gard; Sheriff Van Fossan and Chief of Police John Hephner of Wellsville and Officers John Vokovich and James L. Morrissey, both representing committees of the Lisbon Kiwanis Club.

Concern was expressed that Columbiana County might come out "second best" in any setup with more populous Stark. Eckert said that was why the proposal of separate COGS was adopted. He said each council must approve any action of the other before a project can go through.

Eckert distributed forms for the mayors to take to their councils for study and a decision on whether to sign intergovernmental agreements for a COG.

He also handed out copies of proposed bylaws. Morrissey, Columbiana County regional planning director, said he considered the bylaws too broad because they provide for fields other than crime control and would overlap services already provided by the RPC.

He requested that an RPC representative be named to the bylaws committee. However, the mayors did not agree to this and Morrissey withdrew the request after Kampfer said the bylaws should be so written that there would be no overlapping with the RPC.

Gard suggested that thought be given to the study of narcotics — "a field practically untouched in Columbiana County." He said he believes the use of narcotics is accounting for many more burglaries in this area than the public realizes.

In the ground war, meanwhile, the U.S. Command reported more fighting along the rugged Laotian frontier west of Hue and Da Nang and north of the A Shau Valley.

U.S. Marines, backed by Marine dive-bombers, stormed a North Vietnamese artillery base and bunker complex Thursday and reported killing 88 enemy soldiers and seizing two Soviet 122mm guns. Five Marines were reported killed and 26 were wounded.

The wheeled artillery pieces were believed to be the first of their kind captured in the war. They weigh 2½ tons and can hurl 48-pound shells about seven miles. The Marines also captured a tractor used to haul the big guns, five other crew-served weapons, 10 rifles, a truck and 500 rounds of heavy ammunition.

The Marines said they killed 19 North Vietnamese soldiers in two fights later in the day and suffered two men killed and 16 wounded.

New Help Sought In Heart Fund's Annual Appeal

A new appeal for contributions in the annual Heart Fund drive was issued today by campaign leaders who are seeking raise $4,000 in the East Liverpool area.

So far, collections are not achieving the level of last year when $2,982 was obtained, according to Mrs. Carol Crossen, city chairman.

Mrs. Crossen emphasized the campaign is not a part of the United Fund due to a policy of the national Heart Fund organization.

She pointed out, however, 70 per cent of the funds collected in the drive remain in Columbiana County. Last year, for example, funds were used to purchase two Tutor II machines, throat cultures to detect rheumatic fever and for a free work evaluation clinic for heart patients.

Som 100 volunteers began solicitations Sunday in the East Liverpool area and will continue the canvassing through Sunday.

Mrs. Crossen urged those visited to send the envelopes to Mrs. Margaret Violand, 406 N. Market St., East Palestine.

She said 58 per cent of deaths in Columbiana County are attributed to heart disease.

Group singing was held. Knot tying, first aid, flag and Morse code signals were demonstrated by Boy Scout Troop 43 under the direction of Alvin Dickey, scoutmaster.

Michael Wolf, a member of the Webelos, received the highest award of the outfit and advanced to Boy Scout rank.

Others who were awarded badges, patches and arrows by Hill were Jeff Atwood of Den 1, wolf silver arrow; Randy Gibbs of Den 2, wolfe; Randy Adams of Den 4, wolf; Jim Hutchison, wolf, wolf gold arrow; and Tim Arnold, wolf gold arrow, wolf silver arrow; David Dailey of Den 5, wolf badge and denner stripe; Bobby Potts, wolf silver arrow; Lee Lerussi, wolf silver arrow, and David Delaney, assistant denner stripe.

In the Webelos group, recipients were Jeffrey Gibbs, two-year pin; Jeffrey Boyd, denner stripe and one-year pin, and Wayne Saling, two-year pin.

The invocation was offered by the Rev. John Skelbred.

Mayors

work together in the field of crime control.

The Columbiana group expressed interest only in the field of crime control, while Stark County, farther advanced in planning, hopes to use other facets of COG.

District 8 is eligible for $16,036 in federal funds for planning in the field of crime control including training, equipment and even construction.

Gause pointed out that this money must be applied for before July 1. District 8 would be expected to add 10 per cent of the grant or $800 for each COG, although this can be "in-kind" service instead of cash, it was explained.

Federal funds would be available for approved programs, with each COG participating financially or in-kind according to formulas worked out by the state for the various programs.

Mayors attending were Cranmer, Kampfer, Harding, Clyde B. Pike of Lisbon, Dan Cullinan of Leetonia, Frank Davidson of Washingtonville and Ernest Phillips of Summitville.

Also present were County Commissioners Gause, James W. Boyd and R. Max Gard; Sheriff Van Fossan and Chief of Police John Hephner of Wellsville and Officers John Vokovich and James L. Morrissey, both representing committees of the Lisbon Kiwanis Club.

Concern was expressed that Columbiana County might come out "second best" in any setup with more populous Stark. Eckert said that was why the proposal of separate COGS was adopted. He said each council must approve any action of the other before a project can go through.

Eckert distributed forms for the mayors to take to their councils for study and a decision on whether to sign intergovernmental agreements for a COG.

He also handed out copies of proposed bylaws. Morrissey, Columbiana County regional planning director, said he considered the bylaws too broad because they provide for fields other than crime control and would overlap services already provided by the RPC.

He requested that an RPC representative be named to the bylaws committee. However, the mayors did not agree to this and Morrissey withdrew the request after Kampfer said the bylaws should be so written that there would be no overlapping with the RPC.

Gard suggested that thought be given to the study of narcotics — "a field practically untouched in Columbiana County." He said he believes the use of narcotics is accounting for many more burglaries in this area than the public realizes.

In the ground war, meanwhile, the U.S. Command reported more fighting along the rugged Laotian frontier west of Hue and Da Nang and north of the A Shau Valley.

U.S. Marines, backed by Marine dive-bombers, stormed a North Vietnamese artillery base and bunker complex Thursday and reported killing 88 enemy soldiers and seizing two Soviet 122mm guns. Five Marines were reported killed and 26 were wounded.

The wheeled artillery pieces were believed to be the first of their kind captured in the war. They weigh 2½ tons and can hurl 48-pound shells about seven miles. The Marines also captured a tractor used to haul the big guns, five other crew-served weapons, 10 rifles, a truck and 500 rounds of heavy ammunition.

The Marines said they killed 19 North Vietnamese soldiers in two fights later in the day and suffered two men killed and 16 wounded.

New Help Sought In Heart Fund's Annual Appeal

A new appeal for contributions in the annual Heart Fund drive was issued today by campaign leaders who are seeking raise $4,000 in the East Liverpool area.

So far, collections are not achieving the level of last year when $2,982 was obtained, according to Mrs. Carol Crossen, city chairman.

Mrs. Crossen emphasized the campaign is not a part of the United Fund due to a policy of the national Heart Fund organization.

She pointed out, however, 70 per cent of the funds collected in the drive remain in Columbiana County. Last year, for example, funds were used to purchase two Tutor II machines, throat cultures to detect rheumatic fever and for a free work evaluation clinic for heart patients.

Som 100 volunteers began solicitations Sunday in the East Liverpool area and will continue the canvassing through Sunday.

Mrs. Crossen urged those visited to send the envelopes to Mrs. Margaret Violand, 406 N. Market St., East Palestine.

She said 58 per cent of deaths in Columbiana County are attributed to heart disease.

Prejudice Or Progress?

Comments about real or imagined racial prejudice in the bestowing of athletic honors at East Liverpool High School over the past four decades have taken on a sour sound which does nothing for sports nor for community relations.

The point is well made that there might just be a hint of discrimination in making the awards. If there is an area in which skill and achievement is obvious regardless of color, it is in the scorebooks. But where the honor is based on more subjective factors, one wonders.

When people start using terms such as "sour grapes," "inequality," "tokenism" and "oversensitive," it is easy to see how impossible a true analysis is of the past selections or the present accusations.

What is done, is done, and true sportsmen and honest followers of the games realize this dispute cannot really diminish the tributes to the black and white recipients of the awards, now and in the past.

People have an obligation to speak out on these concerns. However, it must be realized that we do not need re-heating of old disputes but some cooler solutions to present problems.

It is easier to criticize and condemn past relationships than it is to work for better conditions, and the emotion generated by claims and counter-claims hinders real progress toward the equality which intelligent whites and blacks truly seek.

East Liverpool's young and old have to face up to reality and recognize racism for what it is — both black and white — and learn to live with each other in a sincere and straightforward manner.

This can, of course, be done on the school level better than it can be done in the older generations where attitudes have become polarized. It disturbs us to see young people, so receptive to new ideas, so critical of the older generation for "being in the rut," take the same tortured paths that we have followed.

Blacks have every right to be proud of their athletes, their scholars, their leaders. But they are Americans and individuals first, girls, boys, men, women, handsome, ugly, tall, short and everything else East Liverpool residents are, whether black, white, yellow or brown. And they deserved to be liked or disliked for individual traits, not on generalized group identifications.

That's what all Negroes and whites have to remember in 1969.

Another Blunder By DeGaulle

Boycott of the regular biweekly ministerial meeting of the Western European Union by France failed to dampen the pan-European hopes of other members.

Representatives from Britain, West Germany, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Italy and Belgium reaffirmed this week their support for the policy that so disturbs President De Gaulle — that of using the organization's meetings to consult on foreign policy.

FRANCE HAS ANNOUNCED its boycott will extend to all future meetings unless the other six members turn their back on the program of foreign policy discussion.

Adding an extra measure of defiance to the rigid French position, the six nations set their next meeting for Feb. 26 which is earlier than usual.

The French action is another case of President De Gaulle's refusal to have France participate in anything he cannot dominate.

Other members of the union say President De Gaulle is exaggerating the importance of the talks on foreign affairs.

They view general discussions on foreign policy as a means of keeping informed in an age when one nation's foreign policy can affect other countries either directly or indirectly.

France also sees the use of union meetings as an open forum as another means of gathering support for Britain's admission into the European Common Market — a move being held up singlehandedly by France.

The unsettling effect of French obstinancy on European affairs is only one repercussion of President De Gaulle's pompous decision.

It takes some of the luster off the pending visit to France by President Nixon. Diplomats had been hoping that President Nixon's trip would smooth Franco-American relations just enough to enable other European countries to get somewhere in the crusade for European unity and cooperation.

THE GURGLE of that hope going down the drain has been heard around the world. For, alas, President De Gaulle apparently will never change.

Other nations are changing, however, and one day France may wake up and find itself ostracized, demoralized and severely penalized for following a leader so tied to the past he cannot adapt to a changing world.

Letters To The Editor

I am one of a large part of the student body at East Liverpool High School tired of the recent unrest at the school in regard to the "racial problem" and the censoring of the Keramos Echo.

I was always under the impression that the relationship between Negro and white students was quite commendable until just a couple weeks ago. It seems, though, that an underlying current of unrest was discovered. There are, of course, some white students who are prejudiced against the black, which is only to be expected. All people just don't think the same way, and many are narrow-minded. But, in East Liverpool, those students who are prejudiced are, I believe, very few in number.

However, those that are prejudiced are ruining it for the rest of us. As in everything else, the small group of persons who instigate trouble reflects on the whole, in this case the white student body at ELHS. Likewise, there is a small minority of Negro students who are doing nothing but trying their best to start trouble. To all these I say — don't — we have enough trouble in the world today without purporsely stirring up more? So — cool it! We have had no serious racial problems in our city up to this time, so don't create any unnecessarily.

Just as the minority of white students make the rest look bad, so it is with the colored students. The image created by the rough, rowdy, and loud-mouthed kids do an injustice to the rest. Some of my closest friends are colored, and I must say they would put a lot of white people to shame.

In order to counteract this newly-arisen problem in our school, why don't we follow the advice of Atty. Rowe, who gave an excellent speech in an assembly last Friday, and forget about the pigmentation of our skins and concentrate all our efforts on simply getting along together and getting the best possible education!

I would also like to give a big hand to the girls who wrote the letter concerning the Keramos Echo in last week's Review. "Truer words were never spoken," I believe the saying goes. We, as students, ought to at least have the privilege of voicing our own opinions in our school newspaper. Particularly when those opinions are harmful to no one, and perhaps even constructive for some. For instance, the "food-throwers" in the cafeteria should be dealt with — no girl appreciates mashed potatoes or spinach in her hair, or likes having her clothes splattered with beets, chile, etc. And I do know what I'm talking about! I was the victim of a beet-thrower one afternoon in the cafeteria. Complaints, thus far, have been to no avail. Why?

Another problem which daily gets more and more out of hand is the smoking in the restrooms. If the offenders are caught, of course, they are given "internal suspension" for a certain period of time. And what does this accomplish? — Absolutely nothing! Chances are that the same people will be right back to smoking in the restrooms as soon as they are finished with their "internal suspension."

I suggest that we have a student lounge for those students who smoke, which, I think, is a very sensible solution. Don't get me wrong — I would be the last to condone smoking, but surely a student lounge would have the destruction caused by cigarettes in the restrooms. The butts are carelessly thrown into the sinks or flushed down the toilets, or even left lying, half-smoking on the floor. A fire could easily be started.

I would like to say a few words to some parents who apparently feel the students are somehow trying to overthrow the administration of our school — nothing could be further from the truth. We do respect our administration and faculty, as a whole. But when things happen as mentioned previously, and nobody does anything about it, what do you suggest we do? Our pleas have gotten us nowhere, as in one instance, was shown by the girls' letter regarding the Keramos Echo which went ignored. I'd say it is getting pretty bad when we can't even voice our opinions in the school newspaper.

Parents, don't criticize us for standing up for what we believe in, or for asking "WHY?" when there is, indeed, a legitimate reason for questioning. We live in a fast world, much faster than when you were growing up. The demands on us are greater in many ways. We're living in the 'space age' where we must get all the education we can possibly get, as quickly as we can get it.

We need the right to speak out freely as intelligent young people on issues concerning us, as well as those that cause concern to us. We have so little time in which to learn so much, so don't deny us a few "whip" now and then. Too many parents feel we should just sit back calmly and keep our months shut, and let them do all the talking for us. In some situations this may be fine, but in others it is teaching us absolutely nothing. Give us a little more responsibility and a little more credit for having sense enough to think or work some things out on our own. If you'd give us the chance, we could prove ourselves—it might surprise some of you!

I, my associates and the majority of our student body are neither hippies or militants, so please don't accuse us unjustly. Remeber, we are this country's future leaders and are only interested in what's best for all. I feel that if everyone involved here — students, parents, faculty, and administration — would work together in fullest cooperation, all the problems within our school could be ironed out in the near future to everyone's satisfaction. Everyone must consider the other side's views and come to some sort of a compromise. Everyone must give a little in order to keep our school system tops in Ohio!

VICTOR RIESEL

Disorganized Cosa Nostra

NEW YORK — For us of the anti-Mafia mafia, this is the best of all seasons and the worst of all seasons. La Cosa Nostra's "National Commission" is as full of holes as some of those it caused to depart this earth laden with lead and cement.

Victor Riesel

For the first time, the crime syndicate is on the run — what with two of its board members dead, at least four either convicted or under indictment, one with a heart that's bad even for a Mafiosi, one, the grandee Mike Miranda, aged, and another under seige in his Southwest home.

Mostly they are the white-haired men of the untouchable generation. And so, according to the knowledgeable federals and other intelligence sources, they are reaching across the generation gap for a young leader — allegedly the 52-year-old Thomas (Tommy Ryan) Eboli. And so to him a kiss on both cheeks.

Until the other day, Mr. Eboli reputedly deferred to the wishes of the late Vito Genovese, who thought of "Tommy" as a son and an "underboss," according to the authorities. Vito, dubbed by Thomas Dewey as "King of the Racketeers" when Frankie Costello was prime minister, was obviously a man to cultivate.

HIS WIFE ALWAYS carried "50,000 to $60,000" and she once said, "how should I know how much, I never counted." And Vito could always draw on cash in bank vaults in New York, New Jersey, Monte Carlo, Paris, Switzerland and Naples.

Now Vito is dead like the others he allegedly wiped out, Tony (Render) Strollo, boss of New York's Greenwich Village rackets, and Murder Inc.'s Albert (the Executioner) Anastasia, just to mention two.

But the succession won't be as simple as one of our White House transitions. Tommy Eboli may never have run into King Henry IV, but nonetheless will learn, as have the National Commission elders, that uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

There's going to be gunfire. With the commission's powerful men and syndicate chiefs all the way from San Diego to Chicago, from Philadelphia to Boston and New York, the younger generation, a not so lean but awfully hungry lot, will give "Tommy Ryan" Eboli no surcease.

The underworld will burn brighter than a university building as the local mobs fight for pieces of the action — not only gambling but the labor rackets. The money in seizing unions may not be as heavy as in gambling, but it's safer and more "legal." There are now tens of millions in small local treasuries. There are billions in pension funds. There is easy money in the trillions which will be spent on urban renewal and model city construction in the coming decades.

UNTIL VITO GENOVESE died in a prison hospital, he was the syndicate's one-man supreme court. He controlled much of the waterfront rackets. His men moved into construction unions such as the hod carriers. And someone should take a long look at Baltimore, as well as the New York suburbs.

Vito's dons and underbosses, some by way of concessions meted out by Tony Bender (who died in a car crushed in a junkyard press), moved into powerful sections of Teamsters locals.

And there is the territory of the alleged Genovese Pennsylvania underboss, Russell Bufalino, who traveled with Vito and whose car Vito used to move to and from the notorious 1957 syndicate cookout conference in New York. He is a big man in ladies' garments and has "muscled" hard for his territory in northeastern Pennsylvania.

On Dec. 5, 1968, FBI agents arrested Bufalino and an accomplice. They were charged with conspiring to transport a quantity of stolen television sets valued at $25,000. As an old newsboy, I tell you one doesn't easily give up juicy routes.

SO THIS IS THE BEST of all seasons for those who have fought the Mafia, be they of the press, the pulpit, the universities, the FBI or the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the Justice Dept. The mob's on the run. Its high command is shredded. Its new leader soon will be under assault.

But soon this could be the worst of all seasons. It will be grim, says Ralph Salerno, until recently the New York Police Dept.'s top Mafia specialist, if the politicians don't learn there's clout in the pursuit of the Cosa Nostra.

"Organized crime is getting disorganized. Just look around the country and you'll see what you've never seen before — Cosa Nostra's bosses and underbosses are being indicted and imprisoned. We sneaked up on them before they realized it. The old fellows got tired.

"It is the end of an era. But now the attack will have to be different. We could wrap up the fight on the Mafia in ten years. They are only some 2,000 men. But we need the scientist and sociologist now, especially to dig the mobs out of the ghetto, and from the billions in welfare and antipoverty money."

And there are those who say that a new Labor Dept. policy is vital. It must change its policy from an ambling curiosity over what's happening on the labor racket front. It must demand that its investigative staff be jumped from the meager 175 probers it has to cover a nation. It must move quickly when there are allegations that the mob is moving into unions (as can be seen from current and scheduled trials) and when the syndicate sets up its own dummy labor fronts.

With such help, the private anti-Mafia mafia could make this the best of all decades.

Constitutional Amendment

An amendment to the Constitution may be found necessary if Vice President Agnew is to assume some of the functions of administrative supervision which have already been delegated to him by President Nixon.

For the Constitution specifies merely that the vice president shall be "president of the Senate" and that, in the case of a tie, he may cast a deciding vote. It is plain that he is considered to be a member of Congress rather than an official in the executive branch of the government.

President Nixon, in his statement accompanying an "executive order establishing an office of intergovernmental relations," stipulates that these operations will be "under the immediate supervision of the vice president."

MR. NIXON SAYS, moreover, that, in addition to his other duties, the vice president is to "undertake responsibility for helping to administer the domestic functions of government in several critical areas."

A reading of the Constitution, however, reveals that the delegation of such authority to a vice president is nowhere provided for, or even implied, in any part of the Constitution.

Up to the time of the Truman administration, the vice president — outside of his duties as presiding officer of the Senate — confined himself largely to the making of addresses on ceremonial occasions as a representative of the president.

In setting up various advisory boards in the executive branch in recent years, Congress has provided for participation by the vice president.

Thus, he is a member of the National Security Council and is chairman of the National Advisory Council of the Peace Corps and of the National Aeronautics and Space Council. But these provisions of law do not bestow any authority on the administrative side.

The 25th amendment to the Constitution, adopted in February 1967, provides that if the president is ill or disabled and acknowledges that he is temporarily unable to perform the duties of his office, "such powers and duties shall be discharged by the vice president as acting president."

It also prescribes a formula whereby Congress can empower the vice president to serve as acting president if it is determined that the president is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office.

But under the provisions of the Constitution, the vice president himself cannot become an integral part of the executive branch of the government while the president is able to exercise the powers of his office. During the illness of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon presided over some cabinet meetings but he did not sign any legislation or issue any executive orders.

Mr. Nixon acquired a good deal of familiarity with the operations of the executive branch of the government in the course of his eight years as vice president under President Eisenhower. Doubtless this is one of the reasons why President Nixon is anxious to give Vice President Agnew opportunities to serve virtually as an assistant president.

But there is always a chance that, under Mr. Nixon's new executive order, an action taken by the vice president will be questioned in the courts by businesses or individuals who may feel they have been affected adversely by rules or regulations issued by a government official at the direction of the vice president.

THERE WOULD BE no objection to the adoption of a more detailed provision of the Constitution enabling the vice president to perform certain acts and duties in behalf of the chief executive at any time, and not just during an emergency due to a president's disability.

The vagueness of the Constitution on the subject of filling vacancies in the office of president was cleared up by the 1967 amendment but there are some areas in which the powers of the vice president require further definition.

Public opinion undoubtedly would support an amendment to the Constitution authorizing the President to turn over at his discretion certain responsibilities to the vice president, even though official acts would still require presidential approval.

Another Blunder By DeGaulle

Boycott of the regular biweekly ministerial meeting of the Western European Union by France failed to dampen the pan-European hopes of other members.

Representatives from Britain, West Germany, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Italy and Belgium reaffirmed this week their support for the policy that so disturbs President De Gaulle — that of using the organization's meetings to consult on foreign policy.

FRANCE HAS ANNOUNCED its boycott will extend to all future meetings unless the other six members turn their back on the program of foreign policy discussion.

Adding an extra measure of defiance to the rigid French position, the six nations set their next meeting for Feb. 26 which is earlier than usual.

The French action is another case of President De Gaulle's refusal to have France participate in anything he cannot dominate.

Other members of the union say President De Gaulle is exaggerating the importance of the talks on foreign affairs.

They view general discussions on foreign policy as a means of keeping informed in an age when one nation's foreign policy can affect other countries either directly or indirectly.

France also sees the use of union meetings as an open forum as another means of gathering support for Britain's admission into the European Common Market — a move being held up singlehandedly by France.

It takes some of the luster off the pending visit to France by President Nixon. Diplomats had been hoping that President Nixon's trip would smooth Franco-American relations just enough to enable other European countries to get somewhere in the crusade for European unity and cooperation.

THE GURGLE of that hope going down the drain has been heard around the world. For, alas, President De Gaulle apparently will never change.

Other nations are changing, however, and one day France may wake up and find itself ostracized, demoralized and severely penalized for following a leader so tied to the past he cannot adapt to a changing world.

Letters To The Editor

I am one of a large part of the student body at East Liverpool High School tired of the recent unrest at the school in regard to the "racial problem" and the censoring of the Keramos Echo.

I was always under the impression that the relationship between Negro and white students was quite commendable until just a couple weeks ago. It seems, though, that an underlying current of unrest was discovered. There are, of course, some white students who are prejudiced against the black, which is only to be expected. All people just don't think the same way, and many are narrow-minded. But, in East Liverpool, those students who are prejudiced are, I believe, very few in number.

However, those that are prejudiced are ruining it for the rest of us. As in everything else, the small group of persons who instigate trouble reflects on the whole, in this case the white student body at ELHS. Likewise, there is a small minority of Negro students who are doing nothing but trying their best to start trouble. To all these I say — don't — we have enough trouble in the world today without purporsely stirring up more? So — cool it! We have had no serious racial problems in our city up to this time, so don't create any unnecessarily.

Just as the minority of white students make the rest look bad, so it is with the colored students. The image created by the rough, rowdy, and loud-mouthed kids do an injustice to the rest. Some of my closest friends are colored, and I must say they would put a lot of white people to shame.

In order to counteract this newly-arisen problem in our school, why don't we follow the advice of Atty. Rowe, who gave an excellent speech in an assembly last Friday, and forget about the pigmentation of our skins and concentrate all our efforts on simply getting along together and getting the best possible education!

I would also like to give a big hand to the girls who wrote the letter concerning the Keramos Echo in last week's Review. "Truer words were never spoken," I believe the saying goes. We, as students, ought to at least have the privilege of voicing our own opinions in our school newspaper. Particularly when those opinions are harmful to no one, and perhaps even constructive for some. For instance, the "food-throwers" in the cafeteria should be dealt with — no girl appreciates mashed potatoes or spinach in her hair, or likes having her clothes splattered with beets, chile, etc. And I do know what I'm talking about! I was the victim of a beet-thrower one afternoon in the cafeteria. Complaints, thus far, have been to no avail. Why?

Another problem which daily gets more and more out of hand is the smoking in the restrooms. If the offenders are caught, of course, they are given "internal suspension" for a certain period of time. And what does this accomplish? — Absolutely nothing! Chances are that the same people will be right back to smoking in the restrooms as soon as they are finished with their "internal suspension."

It has been suggested that there be a student lounge for those students who smoke, which, I think, is a very sensible solution. Don't get me wrong — I would be the last to condone smoking, but surely a student lounge would have the destruction caused by cigarettes in the restrooms. The butts are carelessly thrown into the sinks or flushed down the toilets, or even left lying, half-smoking on the floor. A fire could easily be started.

I would like to say a few words to some parents who apparently feel the students are somehow trying to overthrow the administration of our school — nothing could be further from the truth. We do respect our administration and faculty, as a whole. But when things happen as mentioned previously, and nobody does anything about it, what do you suggest we do? Our pleas have gotten us nowhere, as in one instance, was shown by the girls' letter regarding the Keramos Echo which went ignored. I'd say it is getting pretty bad when we can't even voice our opinions in the school newspaper.

Parents, don't criticize us for standing up for what we believe in, or for asking "WHY?" when there is, indeed, a legitimate reason for questioning. We live in a fast world, much faster than when you were growing up. The demands on us are greater in many ways. We're living in the 'space age' where we must get all the education we can possibly get, as quickly as we can get it.

We need the right to speak out freely as intelligent young people on issues concerning us, as well as those that cause concern to us. We have so little time in which to learn so much, so don't deny us a few "whip" now and then. Too many parents feel we should just sit back calmly and keep our months shut, and let them do all the talking for us. In some situations this may be fine, but in others it is teaching us absolutely nothing. Give us a little more responsibility and a little more credit for having sense enough to think or work some things out on our own. If you'd give us the chance, we could prove ourselves—it might surprise some of you!

I, my associates and the majority of our student body are neither hippies or militants, so please don't accuse us unjustly. Remeber, we are this country's future leaders and are only interested in what's best for all. I feel that if everyone involved here — students, parents, faculty, and administration — would work together in fullest cooperation, all the problems within our school could be ironed out in the near future to everyone's satisfaction. Everyone must consider the other side's views and come to some sort of a compromise. Everyone must give a little in order to keep our school system tops in Ohio!

'Pack 'Em Both–Just In Case!'

VICTOR RIESEL

Disorganized Cosa Nostra

NEW YORK — For us of the anti-Mafia mafia, this is the best of all seasons and the worst of all seasons. La Cosa Nostra's "National Commission" is as full of holes as some of those it caused to depart this earth laden with lead and cement.

Victor Riesel

For the first time, the crime syndicate is on the run — what with two of its board members dead, at least four either convicted or under indictment, one with a heart that's bad even for a Mafiosi, one, the grandee Mike Miranda, aged, and another under seige in his Southwest home.

Mostly they are the white-haired men of the untouchable generation. And so, according to the knowledgeable federals and other intelligence sources, they are reaching across the generation gap for a young leader — allegedly the 52-year-old Thomas (Tommy Ryan) Eboli. And so to him a kiss on both cheeks.

Until the other day, Mr. Eboli reputedly deferred to the wishes of the late Vito Genovese, who thought of "Tommy" as a son and an "underboss," according to the authorities. Vito, dubbed by Thomas Dewey as "King of the Racketeers" when Frankie Costello was prime minister, was obviously a man to cultivate.

HIS WIFE ALWAYS carried "50,000 to $60,000" and she once said, "how should I know how much, I never counted." And Vito could always draw on cash in bank vaults in New York, New Jersey, Monte Carlo, Paris, Switzerland and Naples.

Now Vito is dead like the others he allegedly wiped out, Tony (Render) Strollo, boss of New York's Greenwich Village rackets, and Murder Inc.'s Albert (the Executioner) Anastasia, just to mention two.

But the succession won't be as simple as one of our White House transitions. Tommy Eboli may never have run into King Henry IV, but nonetheless will learn, as have the National Commission elders, that uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

There's going to be gunfire. With the commission's powerful men and syndicate chiefs all the way from San Diego to Chicago, from Philadelphia to Boston and New York, the younger generation, a not so lean but awfully hungry lot, will give "Tommy Ryan" Eboli no surcease.

The underworld will burn brighter than a university building as the local mobs fight for pieces of the action — not only gambling but the labor rackets. The money in seizing unions may not be as heavy as in gambling, but it's safer and more "legal." There are now tens of millions in small local treasuries. There are billions in pension funds. There is easy money in the trillions which will be spent on urban renewal and model city construction in the coming decades.

UNTIL VITO GENOVESE died in a prison hospital, he was the syndicate's one-man supreme court. He controlled much of the waterfront rackets. His men moved into construction unions such as the hod carriers. And someone should take a long look at Baltimore, as well as the New York suburbs.

Vito's dons and underbosses, some by way of concessions meted out by Tony Bender (who died in a car crushed in a junkyard press), moved into powerful sections of Teamsters locals.

And there is the territory of the alleged Genovese Pennsylvania underboss, Russell Bufalino, who traveled with Vito and whose car Vito used to move to and from the notorious 1957 syndicate cookout conference in New York. He is a big man in ladies' garments and has "muscled" hard for his territory in northeastern Pennsylvania.

On Dec. 5, 1968, FBI agents arrested Bufalino and an accomplice. They were charged with conspiring to transport a quantity of stolen television sets valued at $25,000. As an old newsboy, I tell you one doesn't easily give up juicy routes.

SO THIS IS THE BEST of all seasons for those who have fought the Mafia, be they of the press, the pulpit, the universities, the FBI or the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the Justice Dept. The mob's on the run. Its high command is shredded. Its new leader soon will be under assault.

But soon this could be the worst of all seasons. It will be grim, says Ralph Salerno, until recently the New York Police Dept.'s top Mafia specialist, if the politicians don't learn there's clout in the pursuit of the Cosa Nostra.

"Organized crime is getting disorganized. Just look around the country and you'll see what you've never seen before — Cosa Nostra's bosses and underbosses are being indicted and imprisoned. We sneaked up on them before they realized it. The old fellows got tired.

"It is the end of an era. But now the attack will have to be different. We could wrap up the fight on the Mafia in ten years. They are only some 2,000 men. But we need the scientist and sociologist now, especially to dig the mobs out of the ghetto, and from the billions in welfare and antipoverty money."

And there are those who say that a new Labor Dept. policy is vital. It must change its policy from an ambling curiosity over what's happening on the labor racket front. It must demand that its investigative staff be jumped from the meager 175 probers it has to cover a nation. It must move quickly when there are allegations that the mob is moving into unions (as can be seen from current and scheduled trials) and when the syndicate sets up its own dummy labor fronts.

With such help, the private anti-Mafia mafia could make this the best of all decades.

Constitutional Amendment

An amendment to the Constitution may be found necessary if Vice President Agnew is to assume some of the functions of administrative supervision which have already been delegated to him by President Nixon.

For the Constitution specifies merely that the vice president shall be "president of the Senate" and that, in the case of a tie, he may cast a deciding vote. It is plain that he is considered to be a member of Congress rather than an official in the executive branch of the government.

President Nixon, in his statement accompanying an "executive order establishing an office of intergovernmental relations," stipulates that these operations will be "under the immediate supervision of the vice president."

MR. NIXON SAYS, moreover, that, in addition to his other duties, the vice president is to "undertake responsibility for helping to administer the domestic functions of government in several critical areas."

A reading of the Constitution, however, reveals that the delegation of such authority to a vice president is nowhere provided for, or even implied, in any part of the Constitution.

Up to the time of the Truman administration, the vice president — outside of his duties as presiding officer of the Senate — confined himself largely to the making of addresses on ceremonial occasions as a representative of the president.

In setting up various advisory boards in the executive branch in recent years, Congress has provided for participation by the vice president.

Thus, he is a member of the National Security Council and is chairman of the National Advisory Council of the Peace Corps and of the National Aeronautics and Space Council. But these provisions of law do not bestow any authority on the administrative side.

The 25th amendment to the Constitution, adopted in February 1967, provides that if the president is ill or disabled and acknowledges that he is temporarily unable to perform the duties of his office, "such powers and duties shall be discharged by the vice president as acting president."

It also prescribes a formula whereby Congress can empower the vice president to serve as acting president if it is determined that the president is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office.

But under the provisions of the Constitution, the vice president himself cannot become an integral part of the executive branch of the government while the president is able to exercise the powers of his office. During the illness of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon presided over some cabinet meetings but he did not sign any legislation or issue any executive orders.

Mr. Nixon acquired a good deal of familiarity with the operations of the executive branch of the government in the course of his eight years as vice president under President Eisenhower. Doubtless this is one of the reasons why President Nixon is anxious to give Vice President Agnew opportunities to serve virtually as an assistant president.

But there is always a chance that, under Mr. Nixon's new executive order, an action taken by the vice president will be questioned in the courts by businesses or individuals who may feel they have been affected adversely by rules or regulations issued by a government official at the direction of the vice president.

Unquestionably the idea of training the vice president in the duties of the presidency is a sensible one.

THERE WOULD BE no objection to the adoption of a more detailed provision of the Constitution enabling the vice president to perform certain acts and duties in behalf of the chief executive at any time, and not just during an emergency due to a president's disability.

The vagueness of the Constitution on the subject of filling vacancies in the office of president was cleared up by the 1967 amendment but there are some areas in which the powers of the vice president require further definition.

Public opinion undoubtedly would support an amendment to the Constitution authorizing the President to turn over at his discretion certain responsibilities to the vice president, even though official acts would still require presidential approval.

Oberlin Demonstrators Fail In Bid To Present Proposals

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — Student demonstrators at Oberlin College marched on the administration building Thursday unsuccessfully seeking to present proposals for change in the school administration.

The students, who earlier disrupted Marine recruiting efforts on campus, sought to meet with Robert K. Carr, the school's president, but cleared out of the building after he threatened to suspend anyone remaining inside.

Carr, in a heated exchange with leaders of the Oberlin Resistance and the campus chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), ripped a poster off the wall and shouted:

"If you people have the gall to talk about the immorality of the Vietnam War, then shame on you as moralists."

Carr then ordered some 25 demonstrators outside.

Answering demands that he discuss policy changes, Carr told the students: "I've been trying to talk with you for weeks and months."

Before they sought to meet with Carr, the demonstrators heard Howard Emmer, an SDS member from Kent State University, tell them more force should have been used to prevent three Marines from entering the campus.

Carr's threat of suspension came three hours after he conceded a temporary triumph to the demonstrators by asking three Marine recruiters to leave the campus before they had completed their interviewing.

Instead of staying all day, the three remained less than two hours. They were escorted from the campus by 300 demonstrators chanting, 'work, study, kill."

Asked later whether college doors would be open for future visits from military recruiters, Carr said he "would not encourage" them to return at this time.

He asserted, however, the college has not changed its policy on recruiting.

The last time the Navy sought to recruit at the college, in October, 1967, a recruiter's car was trapped in a crowd of student demonstrators for four hours.

The Oberlin city police and fire departments were called in to disperse that crowd with tear gas and fire hoses.

3 Cars Damaged In City Collisions

Three cars and a truck were damaged in two minor traffic mishaps here Thursday afternoon and night, police reported.

A collision at 9:20 at E. 3rd and Walnut Sts. involved a 1968 sedan driven by Wayne K. Conner, 28, of 340 Clayburn Pl. and a 1961 sedan operated by Kenneth W. Geer, 16, of New Cumberland RD 2. Connor halted for a car ahead of him and his auto was hit from the rear by Geer's, police said. Geer said he tried unsuccessfully to halt.

A mishap at 1:27 on W. 4th St. 20 feet east of Jefferson St. involved a parked 1963 sedan of Lloyd Zeigler of 4th Ave., LaCroft, and a 1967 panel truck driven by Stanley O. Kuhn, 30, of Steubenville and owned by the Interstate Bakeries Corp. of Cincinnati.

Kuhn told police he was attempting to park in front of a food market when his vehicle bumped the parked car.

Officers Retained, Raises Granted By Health Board

Officers were renamed and pay raises approved during the meeting of the East Liverpool Board of Health Thursday night at City Hall.

Dr. J. K. Rugh was re-elected chairman and C. Frank Dales vice chairman of the board. Rugh has served as chairman since 1963.

A 10 per cent pay increase was granted to three veteran employes who were not included in the recent raises given city employes by Council.

Jack Bonner, health commissioner, Selma Ladzinske, health nurse, and Ben Weber, sanitarian, each will receive an increase of almost $50 a month.

Bonner currently is being paid $483 a month and Miss Ladzinske and Weber each receive $446.20. Each also receives a car allowance of $115 a month.

Mrs Louella Bevan, registrar of vital statistics, reported 43 male and 42 female births and the deaths of 26 male, 27 females and 1 child between Jan. 16 and Feb. 20.

Miss Ladzinske handled 160 cases during the same period. Tuberculosis cases accounted for 44, adult health 42 and child health 74.

Bonner conducted 91 investigations and Weber 144, including 10 milk samples, all testing satisfactorily.

Bills totaled $2,668, with $2,144 for salaries and car expenses.

Bonner and Weber also submitted a yearly summarization reporting 2,239 investigations and 2,364 consultations. Bonner said the health department had a total receipts for permits and birth and death certificates of $7,809, or about one-fourth of the departments operating budget for the year.

A letter received from the county health department suggesting all barbers and beauticians be required to have an annual chest X-ray for tuberculosis prevention was discussed.

The board agreed to adopt whatever regulations the county board of health deems necessary.

Board members also endorsed a bill soon to be presented to the Ohio General Assembly calling for registration of all sanitarians in Ohio.

Bonner was authorized to participate in the upcoming second annual pottery festival in June and will contact the state health department in Columbus for some type of special health display.

Other members present were Dales, Dr. Herschel Rubin, Donald Mackey and Paul Zehnder.

The next meeting will be March 20.

Reports Continue Barr May 'Quit'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mayor Joseph M. Barr has the support of city Democratic ward leaders — if he decides to run for re-election.

But reports continued Thursday that the 62-year-old executive would not run. He had said he would run if his health permitted.

Some 30 ward leaders present at Thursday's meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee expressed pro-Barr sentiments. Two did not attend.

Barr, who inherited the job when the late David L. Lawrence was elected governor in 1968, promised to make known his decision when the committee met, but the meeting was postponed until today or Monday.

East Junior Receives Second 'Bomb' Scare

The second bomb warning this week was received at East Junior High School Thursday afternoon.

Assistant Supt. Carl Pelini said the call came about 2:40. The students were evacuated and teachers joined firemen in a search of the building.

School officials said this morning that the Ohio Department of Education may require students to make up time lost in this manner at the end of the term.

ANN LANDERS

Back To The Doctors!

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a pre-med student who would like to straighten you out. I refer to your answer to the distraught college kid who wrote to you, all uptight about taking LSD because he had heard it might cause his unborn children to be deformed.

Since you reached for the Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Joshua Lederberg, to help you answer, one would think you got the straight goods. But between the two of you, you goofed.

A simple, inexpensive chromosome test can be performed by blood sample in the genetic counseling department of any large hospital, preferably a teaching-medical center. A gross test, one which will reveal any breakage or mutants, can be done almost anywhere a high-powered microscope is available. Tell it like it is, Ann. — PRE-MED STUDENT.

Dear Pre-Med: I turned your letter over to Dr. John P. Merrill, associate professor of Harvard Medical School He replied:

"The pre-med student is wrong. The chromosome test requires something more than a high-powered microscope. The cells taken from a blood sample must be grown in culture, usually stimulated to divide, so one can see the chromosome break up.

"Under these circumstances one might be able to tell something about the effects of LSD. There are, of course, other drugs which could produce this effect but in any case, something more is required than simply looking at cells under a microscope."

I'll pass on your apologies to Dr. Lederberg, Son.

Busy Life

Dear Ann: Since almost everyone reads your column, I know of no better way to get the word to countless inconsiderate, selfish, scheming sons and daughters who leave their aged parents to the mercy of neighbors. I'm so sick of shouldering responsibilities that are not mine I could scream.

When Papa dies, Mama is urged to sell the big house and move into an apartment. But the kids make sure the apartment is as far from them as possible. They insist she wants to be "independent." The truth is, they don't want to be bothered with her. So, Mama bothers the neighbors.

I work downtown and come home at night exhausted. Before I sit down to supper the phone rings. Will I run over to the drug store and get some medicine? The delivery boy is sick and she hates to call her son Jake because he lives on the other side of town.

Ten minutes later, another call. Would I mind getting a "a get well" card and a curtain rod during my lunch hour?

At midnight, I get another call froom Mr. J. (age 88). He fell in the bathroom and thinks he broke something. He can't remember his doctor's telephone. Will I call mine? He doesn't want to call his daughter because he doesn't want to bother her. (It's all right to bother ME, however.)

It's hard to say no to these old people, but I resent being in this spot. Any suggestions? — MRS. SOFTIE.

Dear Mrs.: It has been said that "Service is the rent we pay for our place on earth." Consider this small kindnesses "rent" and kwitcherbeefin'.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Contented Cigar Smoker

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of women dislike men who smoke cigars.

But—you know what?—a lot of men who smoke cigars dislike women who don't like men who smoke cigars. They think such women are snippy, prejudiced and misinformed.

"It's all right if you want to smoke cigarettes," says many a young wife to her husband, "but please don't light up one of those horrible cigars. They smell up the draperies something terrible."

Such a woman tends to value the scent of her draperies above her husband's health. All the medical statistics show that a cigar smoker is far more likely to reach a ripe old age, with less damage to his lungs and heart, than either the cigarette smoker or the pipe smoker.

As a matter of fact, these persnickety wives, if they happen to be chain cigarette smokers as so many modern women are, would probably live longer themselves if they switched to a fine panetela.

Why not? If they demand the right to vote like men, hold jobs that traditionally have belonged to men, wear pants and shirts like men, why shouldn't they also smoke like real he-men?

After all, cigars are enjoyed by many European women such as actress Anna Magnani. Among American women who showed a fondness for cigars were poet Amy Lowell and Poker Alice, the frontier gambling lady.

A quarter-century of cigar smoking has taught me a number of things about its pleasures and advantages.

First, I don't think women dislike cigars for the reason they state—because of their so-called stench. Actually, a good cigar emits, with the possible exception of leaves in autumn, the most fragrant of earth's burning smells.

No, the real reason women dislike cigars is twofold: (1) a woman may be able to sew a fine button but she finds it all out impossible to master the art of smoking a cigar gracefully, and (2) she secretly envies cigars because sometimes they give men more solace and soul satisfaction than she can. Therefore, to her the cigar is a rival, a rival to be ridiculed and destroyed.

Another thing I have discovered is that a cigar, not a dog, is man's best friend.

A cigar does not sit up and beg, but on the other hand it does not leave hairs on the sofa or track mud in on the rug. A cigar does not wag its tail in a friendly manner, but neither does it have to be fed or taken out for walks morning and evening in all kinds of weather. A cigar cannot be taught to fetch your slippers; however, a cigar smoker can always teach his wife to do that.

But what a cigar can do is make a man feel better. It makes him feel masculine in a woman-ridden world. It provides him with release, contentment and even exhilaration. It enlarges his spirit, makes him feel taller.

And, unlike a human friend or a dog, it makes no demands upon him. When he is through with it, he can throw it away without qualms. He does not have to cater to it or toady to it or lend it money.

No wonder so many people are disgruntled at the cigar smoker. He gets more out of life than they do.

Officers Retained, Raises Granted By Health Board

Officers were renamed and pay raises approved during the meeting of the East Liverpool Board of Health Thursday night at City Hall.

Dr. J. K. Rugh was re-elected chairman and C. Frank Dales vice chairman of the board. Rugh has served as chairman since 1963.

A 10 per cent pay increase was granted to three veteran employes who were not included in the recent raises given city employes by Council.

Jack Bonner, health commissioner, Selma Ladzinske, health nurse, and Ben Weber, sanitarian, each will receive an increase of almost $50 a month.

Bonner currently is being paid $463 a month and Miss Ladzinske and Weber each receive $446.20. Each also receives a car allowance of $115 a month.

Mrs Louella Bevan, registrar of vital statistics, reported 43 male and 42 female births and the deaths of 26 male, 27 females and 1 child between Jan. 16 and Feb. 20.

Miss Ladzinske handled 160 cases during the same period. Tuberculosis cases accounted for 44, adult health 42 and child health 74.

Bonner conducted 91 investigations and Weber 144, including 10 milk samples, all testing satisfactorily.

Bills totaled $2,668, with $2,144 for salaries and car expenses.

Bonner and Weber also submitted a yearly summarization reporting 2,239 investigations and 2,364 consultations. Bonner said the health department had a total receipts for permits and birth and death certificates of $7,809, or about one-fourth of the departments operating budget for the year.

A letter received from the county health department suggesting all barbers and beauticians be required to have an annual chest X-ray for tuberculosis prevention was discussed.

The board agreed to adopt whatever regulations the county board of health deems necessary.

Board members also endorsed a bill soon to be presented to the Ohio General Assembly calling for registration of all sanitarians in Ohio.

Bonner was authorized to participate in the upcoming second annual pottery festival in June and will contact the state health department in Columbus for some type of special health display.

Other members present were Dales, Dr. Herschel Rubin, Donald Mackey and Paul Zehnder.

The next meeting will be March 20.

Reports Continue Barr May 'Quit'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mayor Joseph M. Barr has the support of city Democratic ward leaders — if he decides to run for re-election.

But reports continued Thursday that the 62-year-old executive would not run. He had said he would run if his health permitted.

Some 30 ward leaders present at Thursday's meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee expressed pro-Barr sentiments. Two did not attend.

Barr, who inherited the job when the late David L. Lawrence was elected governor in 1968, promised to make known his decision when the committee met, but the meeting was postponed until today or Monday.

Gills Slated For Post In Ohio Power

Joe P. Gills, a veteran electric utility executive from Roanoke, Va., will succeed A. N. Prentice as operating head of Ohio Power Co. early next year.

Gills, executive vice president and operating head of Appalachian Power Co., will move to Canton and be elected an executive vice president of Ohio Power later this year. He will then succeed Prentice as operating head of the Canton-based utility upon the latter's retirement April 1, 1970. Prentice will continue as a director of Ohio Power.

Donald C. Cook, president of both Ohio Power and Appalachian Power, made the announcement, explaining that it was being made at this time to help effect the orderly transition of management responsibilities in both companies over the course of the next 13 months.

Gills, a native Virginian, is a 35-year veteran with Appalachian Power and a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he received a bachelor degree in electrical engineering in 1934. He joined Appalachian Power in its Pulaski, Va., district that same year, rising to become assistant district manager by 1941. He subsequently was named district manager in Abingdon, Va., and Logan, W. Va., and in 1954 was promoted to manager. By 1962, he was assistant general manager of Appalachian Power, with headquarters in Roanoke and was elected executive vice president in 1967.

Prentice, who completed 40 years of service with Ohio Power last July, has lived most of his life in his native Stark County.

Born near Massillon and a graduate of Washington High School there, he received engineering degrees from Case Institute of Technology.

Joining the company in 1928 as a meter engineer at East Liverpool, he became assistant general meter superintendent for the entire company six years later. In 1944, he was named a managerial assistant, in 1949 assistant to the vice president and general manager of Ohio Power, and in 1950 assistant general manager of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind., another AEP System operating utility.

He returned to Canton as assistant general manager of Ohio Power in 1953 and in 1967, was elected executive vice president. He and his wife, Nina, are the parents of a daughter and a son.

Ohio Power has operations entirely within the state of Ohio, serving an estimated population of 1,628,000 in 552 communities over 7,372 square miles. Its sales last year were 25.7-billion kwh and its revenues $227-million.

According to a survey by the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., manufacturers of solid glass bricks, the New York City school system paid $1,013,560 to various manufacturers to replace 202,712 broken windows during 1968.

The old pre-election effigy had been on display in a side room along with British fashion model Twiggy and French movie star Brigitte Bardot.

"The old image," said a museum spokesman, "was too much of a smiling one. We feel it is more in keeping with the dignity of the presidency that Mr. Nixon be shown in a serious vain."

Farm Bureau Reports 588 Now Enrolled

LISBON — The Columbiana County Farm Bureau has 588 members, compared with a county goal of 662, it was reported Thursday night during the directors' monthly meeting in the Landmark Building.

The victory dinner for campaign captains and workers, scheduled for tonight has been postponed indefinitely.

Fourteen directors and Dawson Irey of Lisbon RD 4, organization director, were present Thursday night for a discussion of proposed state and national legislation.

The women's committee reported Mrs. Ruth Kauffman of Lisbon, county health department nurse, will discuss a diabetic clinic at the women's meeting next month. A women's tea April 25 at the Salem YWCA will feature hair styling and wigs by the House of James Beauty Salon in Salem.

Board members said reservations are due by March 4 for the young couples' dinner at 7:30 March 6 at Guilford Grange.

The northeast youth conference will be March 22 at Atwater School. Irey said the conference is open to high school students and asked members who have young people eligible to contact him at the Farm Bureau office.

Dinner Plans Are Advanced

Plans were advanced for the annual dinner meeting in April when directors of the Child Counseling Center met Wednesday night at Mary Patterson Memorial.

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson and Mrs. Marie Hays are co-chairmen.

Mrs. Lilyan Alpern, president, said the date and place for the event will be announced later.

Sirhan 'Notes' On Murder Deadline Due

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The black notebooks in which Sirhan Bishara Sirhan reportedly inscribed a deadline for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy are about to surface in his first-degree murder trial.

Defense attorneys said they would object strenuously to their introduction on grounds they were seized illegally from the Sirhan home.

The prosecution's witness list for today included Sgt. Williiam E. Brandt and Dante A. Lodolo of the Los Angeles police who found the notebooks.

Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles made the first reference to the 9-by-12 books soon after Sen. Kennedy died.

Sirhan, he said, wrote of "the necessity of assassinating Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

The death date was met. Kennedy was shot early that day in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel just after winning the California Democratic presidential primary.

The date also was the anniversary of the first Arab-Israeli war. Sirhan, a 24-year-old Jordanian who lived the first half of his life in the strife-torn Middle East, was "quite pro-Arab in the Arab-Israeli matter," Yorty said.

Sirhan's attorneys have pictured him as tortured by war scenes he saw as a child in Palestine and inflamed by Kennedy's advocacy of more U.S. planes for Israel.

Last Oct. 22, Sirhan's defenders were denied a motion to suppress material taken from the Sirhan home in Pasadena without a warrant.

Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled then that one of Sirhan's brothers "took the key, opened the door and allowed them (the police officers) in." But he said he was not ruling on the admissability of the material at the trial.

$100 Million Topped First Time In Sales

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Cooper Tire & Rubber Co. sales topped the $100 million mark in 1968 for the first time, President Wayne B. Brewer reported.

He said sales of $105.5 million represented a 12 per cent increase over 1967. Net income for 1968 declined 8 per cent to $3.7 million, or $1.90 per share, and Brewer attributed this largely to the higher 1968 tax rate.

Woman Injured In Area Accident

West Virginia state police are continuing an investigation into an accident south of Chester Thursday afternoon in which a Marshall County woman was injured.

Terry Rucinsky, 20, of Glendale was treated and released at City Hospital for contusions of the back. She was a passenger in an auto driven by Gloria J. Thompson, 22, of Moundsville. Miss Thompson was examined at the hospital, but had no apparent injuries.

Investigating Trooper M. D. Paine of the Weirton state police barracks said the mishap occurred about 5:20 p. m. when the Thompson auto came around a curve on Route 2 south of Chester, went out of control and struck two cars which had stopped for a taxicab discharging a passenger.

The Thompson vehicle struck cars operated by Ovie F. Haynes, 51, of Huntington and Edwin F. Thornberry, 66, of 1416 Jefferson St., Newell. The two stopped autos were headed south and were hit in the left side.

Bookkeeper To Face Jury In Embezzlement

CINCINNATI (AP) — A bookkeeper for Merchants Paper Co. here was bound over to the Hamilton County grand jury Thursday in the embezzlement of $180,873 from the firm.

Bond was set at $10,000 for William C. Schaiblein, 37, Cincinnati, arrested Wednesday. He waived a preliminary hearing.

New Castle Man Wins $100,000

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — Ernie DeJoseph won $100,000 in the New York state lottery Thursday — and was calm through it all.

Explaining his quiet acceptance of the good news, the apparently unflappable DeJoseph said, "Sometimes there's a delayed reaction to such news."

But DeJoseph's wife, Antoinette, and their son and daughter weren't as composed.

Mrs. DeJoseph didn't believe her husband held a winning ticket when first told, then confirmed it with a brother who lives in New York and burst into tears of joy.

The Internal Revenue Service says DeJoseph, a 51-year-old traveling salesman for novelty items, could get as much as $60,000 after taxes or as low as $30,000.

You've probably heard it so many times it doesn't mean much to you anymore. It should though. It's just as true at it ever was. Especially when it comes to clothing.

At the Chambers Co. we don't offer cheaply-made clothing for sale. We handle only quality merchandise. Why? Because we think you have a right to the best. Sure two $50 men's suits will last longer than one $100 suit. But that's as far as it goes. The $50 suit will never fit right, never look right, never feel right. Our Hart, Shafner & Marx suits will fit perfectly, and look impeccably stylish and masculine. It's a matter of hand-stitching. The more a suit has, the better it looks, feels, and wears.

Its the same with our Florsheim shoes, Arrow shirts, and Dobbs hats. Good clothing is good clothing. Period.

Women's Fashions? We don't alter our position one bit. We offer the best of current fashions. For women who care to look especially attractive in their clothes. Butte, Lampl, Ricci, Johnathan Logan, Bobbie Brooks, Jantzen. We could go on and on. But our point should be clear by now. The Chambers Co. won't sell you junk. We just don't have any to sell. And never will.

But don't think you have to spend a fortune to clothe yourself at the Chambers Co. We always keep our prices in line. We invite you to compare what you get for your money at the Chambers Co. with any store in the area. We'll give you a lot more for just a little more money.

Gills Slated For Post In Ohio Power

Joe P. Gills, a veteran electric utility executive from Roanoke, Va., will succeed A. N. Prentice as operating head of Ohio Power Co. early next year.

Gills, executive vice president and operating head of Appalachian Power Co., will move to Canton and be elected an executive vice president of Ohio Power later this year. He will then succeed Prentice as operating head of the Canton-based utility upon the latter's retirement April 1, 1970. Prentice will continue as a director of Ohio Power.

Donald C. Cook, president of both Ohio Power and Appalachian Power, made the announcement, explaining that it was being made at this time to help effect the orderly transition of management responsibilities in both companies over the course of the next 13 months.

Gills, a native Virginian, is a 35-year veteran with Appalachian Power and a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he received a bachelor degree in electrical engineering in 1934. He joined Appalachian Power in its Pulaski, Va., district that same year, rising to become assistant district manager by 1941. He subsequently was named district manager in Abingdon, Va., and Logan, W. Va., and in 1954 was promoted to manager. By 1962, he was assistant general manager of Appalachian Power, with headquarters in Roanoke and was elected executive vice president in 1967.

Prentice, who completed 40 years of service with Ohio Power last July, has lived most of his life in his native Stark County.

Born near Massillon and a graduate of Washington High School there, he received engineering degrees from Case Institute of Technology.

Joining the company in 1928 as a meter engineer at East Liverpool, he became assistant general meter superintendent for the entire company six years later. In 1944, he was named a managerial assistant, in 1949 assistant to the vice president and general manager of Ohio Power, and in 1950 assistant general manager of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind., another AEP System operating utility.

He returned to Canton as assistant general manager of Ohio Power in 1953 and in 1967, was elected executive vice president. He and his wife, Nina, are the parents of a daughter and a son.

Ohio Power has operations entirely within the state of Ohio, serving an estimated population of 1,628,000 in 552 communities over 7,372 square miles. Its sales last year were 25.7-billion kwh and its revenues $227-million.

According to a survey by the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., manufacturers of solid glass bricks, the New York City school system paid $1,013,560 to various manufacturers to replace 202,712 broken windows during 1968.

LONDON (AP) — A new effigy of President Nixon, shorn of the smile shown on a previous one, was placed on display today in the U.S. statesmen section of Madame Tussaud's wax museum.

The old pre-election effigy had been on display in a side room along with British fashion model Twiggy and French movie star Brigitte Bardot.

"The old image," said a museum spokesman, "was too much of a smiling one. We feel it is more in keeping with the dignity of the presidency that Mr. Nixon be shown in a serious vain."

NEW YORK (AP) — Last Feb. 23 William A. Johnson, 29, failed to show up for a date in federal court to stand trial on a charge of attempted bank robbery. Tried later, he was sentenced to 25 years in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Thursday, a New York grand jury offered an explanation for Johnson's tardiness a year ago. In an indictment, it said he was busy last Feb. 23 helping rob another bank of $52,436.

Nixon Informs Him Of Move

Hickel Glad White House To Set Oil Import Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, already on notice from some Congressmen that they would watch his every move, says he is glad to have the White House take over responsibility for oil import policy.

"I think it's great," said Hickel after Presiden Nixon informed him of the move in a memo Thursday. "That's where it has historically been. It should never have been removed from there in the first place."

Nixon also announced an "extensive review in detail and in the aggregate" of the present policy of permitting limited imports of oil, established in 1959 by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It had been the President's responsibility until Lyndon Johnson assumed office in 1963 and, because of his Texas oil-state background, delegated the whole can of worms to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

Hickel himself has been vulnerable to charges he might by sympathetic to oil interests because of past business connections, his governorship of Alaska—itself a burgeoning oil state—and his choice of aides.

His connections and past business dealings came under intense scrutiny during prolonged confirmation hearings before the Senate Interior Committee. Several members made it clear that they would pay close attention to Hickel's actions as secretary.

Hickel himself, in a statement, said he had urged Nixon to assume the responsibility.

Nixon said that many important and complex oil import issues must be dealt with soon and have not been studied in depth for 10 years.

He did not specify the issues, but there are plenty to choose from.

One is the basic question of whether, or at what level, oil imports should be allowed.

The federal government has taken the position that a limit is necessary to protect national security from becoming dependent on foreign oil.

It has fixed the level of vastly cheaper imported oil at 12.2 percent of domestic production east of the Rocky Mountains. The West Coast is allowed to make up its regional oil deficit with imports.

Still another explosive issue is the proposal of Occidental Petroleum Corp. to build an oil refinery in a requested foreign trade zone in Maine and—technically outside the U.S. market—feed it with foreign oil.

Occidental wants to sell part of its production as fuel oil in New England, and the project has strong backing from Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other New England Congressmen and state officials.

Muskie, reached in New York, said:

"I am not surprised. It was rather expected. It doesn't change the substance of the problem because I am quite sure Secretary Hickel would not have made any kind of decision without the approval of the President."

Kennedy could not be reached for comment.

"For too long," Proxmire said, "the oil companies have treated the Interior Department as their policy-making arm. The President's action hopefully will take control of the program away from the oil companies."

2 Firemen Work 'Doggone Hard' In Rescuing Pup

Two Wellsville firemen found themselves up against a wall all day Thursday when an inquisitive 8-week-old puppy wandered into an open space behind a cupboard and fell between walls in a Wellsville apartment.

Firemen Thomas Lanam and Lawrence Mick labored throughout Thursday to free the pup belonging to Mrs. Marsha Wallace of 909½ Main St. which had crawled behind the cupboard and fallen into the "dead air" space between walls in the downstairs apartment.

In order to liberate the dog, Chief Robert Lewis had to receive the permission of the owner of the apartment house to gouge a small hole in the bathroom wall after the whereabouts of the animal was determined about 9:45 p. m., he said.

The puppy was unhurt but very glad to get out, Lewis noted.

Farm Bureau Reports 588 Now Enrolled

LISBON — The Columbiana County Farm Bureau has 588 members, compared with a county goal of 662, it was reported Thursday night during the directors' monthly meeting in the Landmark Building.

The victory dinner for campaign captains and workers, scheduled for tonight has been postponed indefinitely.

Fourteen directors and Dawson Irey of Lisbon RD 4, organization director, were present Thursday night for a discussion of proposed state and national legislation.

The women's committee reported Mrs. Ruth Kauffman of Lisbon, county health department nurse, will discuss a diabetic clinic at the women's meeting next month. A women's tea April 25 at the Salem YWCA will feature hair styling and wigs by the House of James Beauty Salon in Salem.

Board members said reservations are due by March 4 for the young couples' dinner at 7:30 March 6 at Guilford Grange.

The northeast youth conference will be March 22 at Atwater School. Irey said the conference is open to high school students and asked members who have young people eligible to contact him at the Farm Bureau office.

Dinner Plans Are Advanced

Plans were advanced for the annual dinner meeting in April when directors of the Child Counseling Center met Wednesday night at Mary Patterson Memorial.

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson and Mrs. Marie Hays are co-chairmen.

Mrs. Lilyan Alpern, president, said the date and place for the event will be announced later.

A nominating committee to present a new slate of directors includes Judge Louis Tobin, Thayer Allison and Emmerling.

A committee appointed to study the budget and financial status of the center relative to future expansion includes Edwin Morse, Harmon Rogers and Allison.

The Rev. Richard L. Shipley of the Longs Run United Presbyterian Church represented the Ministerial Association at the meeting.

Hubert Lawrence, county school psychologist, will speak at the March 12 meeting.

Sirhan 'Notes' On Murder Deadline Due

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The black notebooks in which Sirhan Bishara Sirhan reportedly inscribed a deadline for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy are about to surface in his first-degree murder trial.

Defense attorneys said they would object strenuously to their introduction on grounds they were seized illegally from the Sirhan home.

The prosecution's witness list for today included Sgt. William E. Brandt and Dante A. Lodolo of the Los Angeles police who found the notebooks.

Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles made the first reference to the 9-by-12 books soon after Sen. Kennedy died.

Sirhan, he said, wrote of "the necessity of assassinating Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

The death date was met. Kennedy was shot early that day in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel just after winning the California Democratic presidential primary.

The date also was the anniversary of the first Arab-Israeli war. Sirhan, a 24-year-old Jordanian who lived the first half of his life in the strife-torn Middle East, was "quite pro-Arab in the Arab-Israeli matter," Yorty said.

Sirhan's attorneys have pictured him as tortured by war scenes he saw as a child in Palestine and inflamed by Kennedy's advocacy of more U.S. planes for Israel.

Last Oct. 22, Sirhan's defenders were denied a motion to suppress material taken from the Sirhan home in Pasadena without a warrant.

Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled then that one of Sirhan's brothers "took the key, opened the door and allowed them (the police officers) in." But he said he was not ruling on the admissability of the material at the trial.

$100 Million Topped First Time In Sales

He said sales of $105.5 million represented a 12 per cent increase over 1967. Net income for 1968 declined 8 per cent to $3.7 million, or $1.90 per share, and Brewer attributed this largely to the higher 1968 tax rate.

Woman Injured In Area Accident

West Virginia state police are continuing an investigation into an accident south of Chester Thursday afternoon in which a Marshall County woman was injured.

Terry Rucinsky, 20, of Glendale was treated and released at City Hospital for contusions of the back. She was a passenger in an auto driven by Gloria J. Thompson, 22, of Moundsville. Miss Thompson was examined at the hospital, but had no apparent injuries.

Investigating Trooper M. D. Paine of the Weirton state police barracks said the mishap occurred about 5:20 p. m. when the Thompson auto came around a curve on Route 2 south of Chester, went out of control and struck two cars which had stopped for a taxicab discharging a passenger.

The Thompson vehicle struck cars operated by Ovie F. Haynes, 51, of Huntington and Edwin F. Thornberry, 66, of 1416 Jefferson St., Newell. The two stopped autos were headed south and were hit in the left side.

Bookkeeper To Face Jury In Embezzlement

CINCINNATI (AP) — A bookkeeper for Merchants Paper Co. here was bound over to the Hamilton County grand jury Thursday in the embezzlement of $180,873 from the firm.

Bond was set at $10,000 for William C. Schaiblein, 37, Cincinnati, arrested Wednesday. He waived a preliminary hearing.

New Castle Man Wins $100,000

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — Ernie DeJoseph won $100,000 in the New York state lottery Thursday — and was calm through it all.

Explaining his quiet acceptance of the good news, the apparently unflappable DeJoseph said, "Sometimes there's a delayed reaction to such news."

But DeJoseph's wife, Antoinette, and their son and daughter weren't as composed.

Mrs. DeJoseph didn't believe her husband held a winning ticket when first told, then confirmed it with a brother who lives in New York and burst into tears of joy.

The Internal Revenue Service says DeJoseph, a 51-year-old traveling salesman for novelty items, could get as much as $60,000 after taxes or as low as $30,000.

Defense Points To Evidence

U.S. Feels Soviet Plans An Orbital Bomb System

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say they think the Soviet Union has decided to deploy an orbital bomb system in space.

They indicate that accumulating evidence, presumably gathered from Soviet tests monitored by the United States, points toward the Kremlin's intention to mount the program, called a Factional Orbital Bombardment System.

This conclusion comes only a month after Clark M. Clifford, in his final report as secretary of defense, said the United States was uncertain about Soviet use of the FOBS.

Pentagon sources said, however, the Clifford statement reflected assessments made in the last months of 1968.

An FOBS would be boosted into a low orbit, generally about 100 miles above Earth, and would be fired by remote control at ground targets before completing its first circuit.

The low altitude would enable the orbital bomb to avoid detection by U.S. early warning radar.

Officials refuse to discuss intelligence, but it is known that the Russians have conducted at least 13 FOBS tests. The first seven reported flopped, but the next six were said to have worked.

The Soviet Union's experiments with an orbital bomb were disclosed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Nov. 3, 1967.

He downrated it, saying it would be too inaccurate for a satisfactory attack on U.S. intercontinental missiles protected in underground silos. But he did say the Russians might consider using it for surprise attack against such "soft land targets" as bomber bases.

In spite of the surprise potential of an orbital bomb, the United States has been developing radar that can "see" over the horizon, giving the alarm shortly after such a warhead is launched.

Another possible defense could come from the Sentinel missile defense system, according to testimony Thursday from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Commitee that among the options being studied in a review of the now suspended Sentinel program are means to protect against an orbital bomb attack.

One of Laird's statements that attracted considerable attention was his disclosure that the Soviet Union is moving ahead with a "sophisticated new ABM system."

Asked for details the Pentagon would say only that "we have evidence of continuing Soviet activity toward improved sophistication in the antiballistic field."

Citing security reasons, the Defense Department refused to provide details except to say that "the research tests are related to both software and hardware items."

There were indications this meant Moscow is trying to improve the all-important radar and computer components in their antimissile system.

Solicitor Briefs Zoning Appeals Board On Duties

The new Zoning Board of Appeals was briefed on its duties by Solicitor J. Michael Kapp during a meeting Thursday night at the Planning Commission office in City Hall.

The board is comprised of Richard Carter, chairman, Clair Parks, George Aronson, the Rev. E. C. Traylor and Raymond Trevelline. Planning Coordinator Don Eckert and Marvin Wooley, zoning and housing inspector, also attended.

Kapp explained to the board a new procedure first outlined last week in which many requests for changes in the use of property will be processed through the Zoning Board of Appeals rather than being taken to the planning commission and City Council as applications for changes in zoning classification.

The board is scheduled to hear one appeal case on March 13 and approximately seven on March 27.

Restrictions Put On Pittsburgh's School Visitors

PITTSBURGH (AP) — City school buildings will be off limits to all but students, teachers and district officials, according to an order handed down by city school officials.

Supt. Bernard J. McCormick said Thursday any persons violating the restrictions would be turned over to police.

The curb is an effort to halt alleged outside agitation of racial violence among pupils, he said.

Police Supt. James W. Slusser said he thinks more than one group is responsible for tension in schools. He blamed recent trouble at Oliver High School and Gladstone High School on "a conspiracy attempting to tear down our government as we know it."

A conference was held Thursday of a city and county law enforcement officials, who are investigating the incidents.

The investigation is touching "all aspects of racial troubles in the schools and communities," said Robert W. Duggan, Allegheny County district attorney.

Nixon Informs Him Of Move

Hickel Glad White House To Set Oil Import Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, already on notice from some Congressmen that they would watch his every move, says he is glad to have the White House take over responsibility for oil import policy.

"I think it's great," said Hickel after Presiden Nixon informed him of the move in a memo Thursday. "That's where it has historically been. It should never have been removed from there in the first place."

Nixon also announced an "extensive review in detail and in the aggregate" of the present policy of permitting limited imports of oil, established in 1959 by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It had been the President's responsibility until Lyndon Johnson assumed office in 1963 and, because of his Texas oil-state background, delegated the whole can of worms to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

Hickel himself has been vulnerable to charges he might by sympathetic to oil interests because of past business connections, his governorship of Alaska—itself a burgeoning oil state—and his choice of aides.

His connections and past business dealings came under intense scrutiny during prolonged confirmation hearings before the Senate Interior Committee. Several members made it clear that they would pay close attention to Hickel's actions as secretary.

Hickel himself, in a statement, said he had urged Nixon to assume the responsibility.

Nixon said that many important and complex oil import issues must be dealt with soon and have not been studied in depth for 10 years.

He did not specify the issues, but there are plenty to choose from.

One is the basic question of whether, or at what level, oil imports should be allowed.

The federal government has taken the position that a limit is necessary to protect national security from becoming dependent on foreign oil.

It has fixed the level of vastly cheaper imported oil at 12.2 percent of domestic production east of the Rocky Mountains. The West Coast is allowed to make up its regional oil deficit with imports.

Still another explosive issue is the proposal of Occidental Petroleum Corp. to build an oil refinery in a requested foreign trade zone in Maine and—technically outside the U.S. market—feed it with foreign oil.

Occidental wants to sell part of its production as fuel oil in New England, and the project has strong backing from Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other New England Congressmen and state officials.

Muskie, reached in New York, said:

"I am not surprised. It was rather expected. It doesn't change the substance of the problem because I am quite sure Secretary Hickel would not have made any kind of decision without the approval of the President."

Kennedy could not be reached for comment.

"For too long," Proxmire said, "the oil companies have treated the Interior Department as their policy-making arm. The President's action hopefully will take control of the program away from the oil companies."

2 Firemen Work 'Doggone Hard' In Rescuing Pup

Two Wellsville firemen found themselves up against a wall all day Thursday when an inquisitive 8-week-old puppy wandered into an open space behind a cupboard and fell between walls in a Wellsville apartment.

Firemen Thomas Lanam and Lawrence Mick labored throughout Thursday to free the pup belonging to Mrs. Marsha Wallace of 909½ Main St. which had crawled behind the cupboard and fallen into the "dead air" space between walls in the downstairs apartment.

In order to liberate the dog, Chief Robert Lewis had to receive the permission of the owner of the apartment house to gouge a small hole in the bathroom wall after the whereabouts of the animal was determined about 9:45 p. m., he said.

The puppy was unhurt but very glad to get out, Lewis noted.

ANN LANDERS

Back To The Doctors!

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a pre-med student who would like to straighten you out. I refer to your answer to the distraught college kid who wrote to you, all uptight about taking LSD because he had heard it might cause his unborn children to be deformed.

Since you reached for the Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Joshua Lederberg, to help you answer, one would think you got the straight goods. But between the two of you, you goofed.

A simple, inexpensive chromosome test can be performed by blood sample in the genetic counseling department of any large hospital, preferably a teaching-medical center. A gross test, one which will reveal any breakage or mutants, can be done almost anywhere a high-powered microscope is available. Tell it like it is, Ann. — PRE-MED STUDENT.

Dear Pre-Med: I turned your letter over to Dr. John P. Merrill, associate professor of Harvard Medical School He replied:

"The pre-med student is wrong. The chromosome test requires something more than a high-powered microscope. The cells taken from a blood sample must be grown in culture, usually stimulated to divide, so one can see the chromosome break up.

"Under these circumstances one might be able to tell something about the effects of LSD. There are, of course, other drugs which could produce this effect but in any case, something more is required than simply looking at cells under a microscope."

I'll pass on your apologies to Dr. Lederberg, Son.

Busy Life

Dear Ann: Since almost everyone reads your column, I know of no better way to get the word to countless inconsiderate, selfish, scheming sons and daughters who leave their aged parents to the mercy of neighbors. I'm so sick of shouldering responsibilities that are not mine I could scream.

When Papa dies, Mama is urged to sell the big house and move into an apartment. But the kids make sure the apartment is as far from them as possible. They insist she wants to be "independent." The truth is, they don't want to be bothered with her. So, Mama bothers the neighbors.

I work downtown and come home at night exhausted. Before I sit down to supper the phone rings. Will I run over to the drug store and get some medicine? The delivery boy is sick and she hates to call her son Jake because he lives on the other side of town.

Ten minutes later, another call. Would I mind getting a "a get well" card and a curtain rod during my lunch hour?

At midnight, I get another call froom Mr. J. (age 88). He fell in the bathroom and thinks he broke something. He can't remember his doctor's telephone. Will I call mine? He doesn't want to call his daughter because he doesn't want to bother her. (It's all right to bother ME, however.)

It's hard to say no to these old people, but I resent being in this spot. Any suggestions? — MRS. SOFTIE.

Dear Mrs.: It has been said that "Service is the rent we pay for our place on earth." Consider this small kindnesses "rent" and kwitcherbeefin'.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Contented Cigar Smoker

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of women dislike men who smoke cigars.

But—you know what?—a lot of men who smoke cigars dislike women who don't like men who smoke cigars. They think such women are snippy, prejudiced and misinformed.

"It's all right if you want to smoke cigarettes," says many a young wife to her husband, "but please don't light up one of those horrible cigars. They smell up the draperies something terrible."

Such a woman tends to value the scent of her draperies above her husband's health. All the medical statistics show that a cigar smoker is far more likely to reach a ripe old age, with less damage to his lungs and heart, than either the cigarette smoker or the pipe smoker.

As a matter of fact, these persnickety wives, if they happen to be chain cigarette smokers as so many modern women are, would probably live longer themselves if they switched to a fine panetela.

Why not? If they demand the right to vote like men, hold jobs that traditionally have belonged to men, wear pants and shirts like men, why shouldn't they also smoke like real he-men?

After all, cigars are enjoyed by many European women such as actress Anna Magnani. Among American women who showed a fondness for cigars were poet Amy Lowell and Poker Alice, the frontier gambling lady.

A quarter-century of cigar smoking has taught me a number of things about its pleasures and advantages.

First, I don't think women dislike cigars for the reason they state—because of their so-called stench. Actually, a good cigar emits, with the possible exception of leaves in autumn, the most fragrant of earth's burning smells.

No, the real reason women dislike cigars is twofold: (1) a woman may be able to sew a fine button but she finds it all but impossible to master the art of smoking a cigar gracefully, and (2) she secretly envies cigars because sometimes they give men more solace and soul satisfaction than she can. Therefore, to her the cigar is a rival, a rival to be ridiculed and destroyed.

Another thing I have discovered is that a cigar, not a dog, is man's best friend.

A cigar does not sit up and beg, but on the other hand it does not leave hairs on the sofa or track mud in on the rug. A cigar does not wag its tail in a friendly manner, but neither does it have to be fed or taken out for walks morning and evening in all kinds of weather. A cigar cannot be taught to fetch your slippers; however, a cigar smoker can always teach his wife to do that.

But what a cigar can do is make a man feel better. It makes him feel masculine in a woman-ridden world. It provides him with release, contentment and even exhilaration. It enlarges his spirit, makes him feel taller.

And, unlike a human friend or a dog, it makes no demands upon him. When he is through with it, he can throw it away without qualms. He does not have to cater to it or toady to it or lend it money.

No wonder so many people are disgruntled at the cigar smoker. He gets more out of life than they do.

Defense Points To Evidence

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say they think the Soviet Union has decided to deploy an orbital bomb system in space.

They indicate that accumulating evidence, presumably gathered from Soviet tests monitored by the United States, points toward the Kremlin's intention to mount the program, called a Factional Orbital Bombardment System.

This conclusion comes only a month after Clark M. Clifford, in his final report as secretary of defense, said the United States was uncertain about Soviet use of the FOBS.

Pentagon sources said, however, the Clifford statement reflected assessments made in the last months of 1968.

An FOBS would be boosted into a low orbit, generally about 100 miles above Earth, and would be fired by remote control at ground targets before completing its first circuit.

The low altitude would enable the orbital bomb to avoid detection by U.S. early warning radar.

Officials refuse to discuss intelligence, but it is known that the Russians have conducted at least 13 FOBS tests. The first seven reported flopped, but the next six were said to have worked.

The Soviet Union's experiments with an orbital bomb were disclosed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Nov. 3, 1967.

He downrated it, saying it would be too inaccurate for a satisfactory attack on U.S. intercontinental missiles protected in underground silos. But he did say the Russians might consider using it for surprise attack against such "soft land targets" as bomber bases.

In spite of the surprise potential of an orbital bomb, the United States has been developing radar that can "see" over the horizon, giving the alarm shortly after such a warhead is launched.

Another possible defense could come from the Sentinel missile defense system, according to testimony Thursday from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Commitee that among the options being studied in a review of the now suspended Sentinel program are means to protect against an orbital bomb attack.

One of Laird's statements that attracted considerable attention was his disclosure that the Soviet Union is moving ahead with a "sophisticated new ABM system."

Asked for details the Pentagon would say only that "we have evidence of continuing Soviet activity toward improved sophistication in the antiballistic field."

Citing security reasons, the Defense Department refused to provide details except to say that "the research tests are related to both software and hardware items."

There were indications this meant Moscow is trying to improve the all-important radar and computer components in their antimissile system.

Solicitor Briefs Zoning Appeals Board On Duties

The board is comprised of Richard Carter, chairman, Clair Parks, George Aronson, the Rev. E. C. Traylor and Raymond Trevelline. Planning Coordinator Don Eckert and Marvin Wooley, zoning and housing inspector, also attended.

Kapp explained to the board a new procedure first outlined last week in which many requests for changes in the use of property will be processed through the Zoning Board of Appeals rather than being taken to the planning commission and City Council as applications for changes in zoning classification.

The board is scheduled to hear one appeal case on March 13 and approximately seven on March 27.

Employes At Warren Vote To Strike Sunday

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — A second Public Employes Union local has voted to strike Sunday at midnight after rejecting the city's proposed fringe benefits package.

Local 74, which represents 200 city employes, voted Thursday to strike. Local 506, which represents 120 of Trumbull County's 700 employes here, voted Wednesday to take the same action in a pay dispute with the county commissioners.

The city strike would affect workers in the sanitation, water and street departments and several smaller departments.

District J.P. Post Sought By Germusa

A second Midland man has announced his candidacy for the office of justice of the peace of the 6th District, which includes Midland.

Steve Germusa of 1059 Midland Ave., who now serves as J.P. for Midland, said he will file a petition for the post. Germusa has served as a J.P. four years and his term will expire in 1972.

He is a member of the St. George Serbian Orthodox Church, American Legion Post 481 and an associate member of the Fraternal Order of Police. Germusa served on Midland council for eight years, four years as president, and was borough treasurer for two years.

He is a graduate of Midland's Lincoln High School and attended the University of Detroit. He recently completed two years schooling at Penn State University and has taken special courses relative to the office of justice of the peace.

He is employed as assistant structural designer in the bridge department of the Michael Baker engineering firm at Rochester.

His wife is the former Marion D'Innocenzo of Midland. They have two daughters, Michelle and Gloria, both at home.

Restrictions Put On Pittsburgh's School Visitors

PITTSBURGH (AP) — City school buildings will be off limits to all but students, teachers and district officials, according to an order handed down by city school officials.

Supt. Bernard J. McCormick said Thursday any persons violating the restrictions would be turned over to police.

The curb is an effort to halt alleged outside agitation of racial violence among pupils, he said.

Police Supt. James W. Slusser said he thinks more than one group is responsible for tension in schools. He blamed recent trouble at Oliver High School and Gladstone High School on "a conspiracy attempting to tear down our government as we know it."

A conference was held Thursday of a city and county law enforcement officials, who are investigating the incidents.

The investigation is touching "all aspects of racial troubles in the schools and communities," said Robert W. Duggan, Allegheny County district attorney.

Extended Phone Service Sought To Link 3 Areas

HANOVERTON — Proposed extended service between the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges of the General Telephone System and Lisbon exchange of the Ohio Bell system is nearing the application stage.

Petition circulators report they have signatures of 81 per cent of the Winona exchange subscribers and 73 per cent of those in the Hanoverton exchange.

Charles J. Gause of Hanoverton RD 1, county commissioner, said the General Telephone Co. of Ohio office at Minerva advised him the firm desires an 80 per cent petition to present to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Gause said 95 more signatures will be needed to bring the Hanoverton petition up to 80 per cent.

The additional cost to residential subscribers for extended service (toll-free calls) between Winona and Lisbon would be 20 cents a month, and between Hanoverton and Lisbon, 50 cents, according to petition circulators.

Gause said he was told extended service could be offered sometime in 1970 if the PUCO approves the applications.

Extended Phone Service Sought To Link 3 Areas

HANOVERTON — Proposed extended service between the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges of the General Telephone System and Lisbon exchange of the Ohio Bell system is nearing the application stage.

Petition circulators report they have signatures of 81 per cent of the Winona exchange subscribers and 73 per cent of those in the Hanoverton exchange.

Charles J. Gause of Hanoverton RD 1, county commissioner, said the General Telephone Co. of Ohio office at Minerva advised him the firm desires an 80 per cent petition to present to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Gause said 95 more signatures will be needed to bring the Hanoverton petition up to 80 per cent.

The additional cost to residential subscribers for extended service (toll-free calls) between Winona and Lisbon would be 20 cents a month, and between Hanoverton and Lisbon, 50 cents, according to petition circulators.

Gause said he was told extended service could be offered sometime in 1970 if the PUCO approves the applications.

Three Named By Nixon As Ambassadors

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has named a career diplomat and two prominent Pennsylvanians to important ambassadorial posts.

The men are Walter Annenberg, editor and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and head of Triangle publications, John Eisenhower of Phoenixville, Pa., son of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Jacob D. Beam, the career diplomat.

Annenberg, a long-time friend of Nixon, was appointed ambassador to Great Britain, Eisenhower, a former Army colonel now an author, was named ambassador to Belgium, and Beam was appointed ambassador to Moscow.

Beam has been in the foreign service since 1931 and is regarded expert on Eastern Europe. He has served in Moscow before.

Annenberg, 60, will be serving in his first government post. The publisher, the son of a German immigrant, plans to retain his newspapers, the Inquirer reported today.

Airport Facility Bidding Planned

LISBON — The Columbiana County Airport Authority voted Thursday evening to advertise for a fixed base operator.

Grading work at the site—old Swaney Field in Madison Township — nearly was completed last fall and the CAA expects to have the field in operation next summer.

Authority members will meet next Wednesday night to consider at least one applicant for operator of the airport.

Don Callen of Umbaugh Pole Buildings, Ravenna, attended last night to give the CAA some idea of building construction costs.

He said a hangar big enough for 10 small planes would cost between $32,000 and $37,000. The CAA also wants prices on a separate administration - workshop building. Callen said he will offer a proposal on it later.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tip For Highway Safety

DEAR HELOISE: I've found a way to make inexpensive and very practical warning reflectors to use in case of automobile breakdowns.

Heloise

I used the inner cardboard cylinders from waxed paper, and purchased some reflecting tape from the hardware store to cover them.

Next I took the tape-covered cylinders and attached each one vertically on a 4"x4" wood base. Nothing to it! They look like some of those shooting fireworks you see on the Fourth of July.

They are so inexpensive that you can make any number to keep in the car.

When a breakdown occurs — day or night — just set several out the way truck drivers do.

They may save you from a rear-end collision — or even your life!

JACK METZ.

DEAR HELOISE: In working with nylon net, I had difficulty cutting it, as the net would slide and I couldn't get accurate measurements.

The results were delightful.

DEAR HELOISE: Our school class went on a trip for two days and one night. We weren't allowed to carry many suitcases, so we had to figure a way to carry our small accessories.

I found the easiest way was to carry my old wallet in my purse. The change purse section was perfect for bobby pins, hair pins, safety pins, needle and thread, etc.

The part that holds bills is perfect for keeping addresses and stamps. The picture compartment is good for adhesive bandages and loose keys.

DEAR HELOISE: Did you ever see a stainless steel scratcher over a vegetable brush and wish you had one, but didn't think you could afford it?

I just bought a stainless steel scraper and put it over the vegetable brush I already had. Can be wired on with "twist-'ems."

Sure saves my hands from all that greasy mess. And what a fabulous gadget to have.

ELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's an idea for you from three guys at Purdue University who have to iron their own shirts. It's a great way to remove rust and burned fragments from the bottom of irons.

Our problem began when some one found while ironing his white shirt, that a dark scum had formed on it.

After a short discussion with the rest of us used a piece of wrinkled foil to get it off.

By lightly scraping the stainless steel bottom of the cold iron with the moistened aluminum foil, it was easy to remove everything.

WINTERTIME DRY NOSE

Q. Is it heat or humidity that causes wintertime dry nose?

A. It's low humidity (lack of moisture in the air). To be comfortable at 72°F., room air should have a relative humidity of about 40 per cent. Even under these "ideal" conditions the nose has trouble keeping up. Every 24 hours we breathe about 500 cubic feet of air. In passing through the nose the air is warmed and about one pint of water is added to raise the relative humidity to 95 per cent. Reduce the relative humidity of room air to 25 per cent, as is the case in many homes during the winter, and the nose loses the battle with the furnace.

BLOOD SWEATING

Q. There is an old saying about people "sweating blood." Is this possible?

Q. No, not in normal persons. However, the sweat glands may get out of commission and secrete a coloring matter that changes the color of sweat. When it is red it looks like the person is "sweating blood."

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tip For Highway Safety

DEAR HELOISE: I've found a way to make inexpensive and very practical warning reflectors to use in case of automobile breakdowns.

Heloise

I used the inner cardboard cylinders from waxed paper, and purchased some reflecting tape from the hardware store to cover them.

Next I took the tape-covered cylinders and attached each one vertically on a 4"x4" wood base. Nothing to it! They look like some of those shooting fireworks you see on the Fourth of July.

They are so inexpensive that you can make any number to keep in the car.

When a breakdown occurs — day or night — just set several out the way truck drivers do.

They may save you from a rear-end collision — or even your life!

JACK METZ.

I'm with you, Jack. A person has to see only ONE stalled car get rammed at high speed (or worse, be in one) to know that it's mighty dangerous not to have reflectors.

These reflectors could also be sprayed with flourescent paint. This comes in small cans and is very inexpensive.

These little homemade jewels just may save your life some day. They are bound to be a good safety factor 'cause truck drivers use them.

Let's hope we never need them, but if we have a stalled car, it's too late then to wish we had carried some.

Uniformly Bullish In January

Indicators Point To No Slackening Of Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says indicators were uniformly bullish in January, showing no signs of the long-awaited —and predicted—slackening of the economy.

"All of the broad economic measures now available were up over the preceding month," said the department, including employment, wages and salaries, industrial production, retail sales and housing starts.

"Wholesale prices advanced sharply according to advance reports," said the department's monthly summary of the business situation. "In credit markets, heavy demands coupled with restrictive monetary policy brought interest rates to new peaks."

The report made no reference to last week's meeting in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, at which U.S. officials were quoted as saying the long awaited slowdown was at last developing.

"In general, we are on the right course," Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, highest ranking member of the U.S. delegation, told newsmen.

The meeting itself was closed to reporters, but foreign sources said the CEA chairman's remarks conveyed strongly the impression that the U.S. growth rate was beginning to yield to government rein tugging.

The report comes after four days of testimony before the joint Senate-House Economic Committee at which administration officials indicated the 10 percent income tax probably should be retained another year.

In another report Thursday, the Commerce Department said new orders for durable goods showed a 1 per cent rise in January, considerably stronger than the .2 per cent expansion in December.

Orders for durable goods are one of the barometers most consulted by economists attempting to predict whether the economy is revving up or slowing down.

Park Facilities Advanced

The structures above are two of the facilities included in the roadside park being constructed at the intersection of Routes 7 and 213 by the Ohio Highway Department.

The park may be placed in operation during the summer.

Work was started last May 20 and is scheduled for completion Oct. 31. However, the park may be opened sooner, according to Richard Robinson of the highway department.

The park will have heated restrooms, a shelter, 10 picnic tables and five grills. Parking space is available for 30 cars.

Some trees have been planted and more will be set out in the spring. Presently, the project is 78 per cent completed, Robinson said.

Crew Can't Be Punished Under It

Pueblo Probe Seen Test To Judge Conduct Code

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy says its inquiry into the behavior of USS Pueblo crewmen in North Korean captivity provides a good test for evaluating the U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners.

However, Pueblo crewmen can not be punished under the code directly, says Capt. William Newsome, Navy counsel, and questioning them about the code is "simply for the sake of evaluating" it.

"Perhaps it is inartfully written and in need of revision," Newsome told newsmen Thursday, referring to an era of cold war when men are not taken prisoner of war but are "illegally detained."

The code of conduct, promulgated by then President Eisenhower after the Korean War, says that U.S. prisoners of war are bound to give only name, rank, service number and date of birth.

Pueblo officers and crewmen have told a Navy court of inquiry into the ship's seizure and their 11-month imprisonment that they signed false confessions after torture, saying they intruded into North Korean waters and were spying. The court was in recess today for Washington's birthday.

How the code of conduct is affected by the Pueblo case was shown Thursday in testimony from Radioman 2.C. Lee Roy Hayes, who said he prayed an atomic bomb would be dropped on North Korea during his imprisonment because "I'd rather be killed by my own people."

"What was the main reason for deviating from the code of conduct?" asked the counsel.

"I couldn't hold out forever," said Hayes.

It's a good idea to keep a pastry brush on hand for brushing meats with barbecue sauce when they're being cooked in the oven. A longhandled brush is necessary for outdoor barbecuing, but the regular short-handled pastry brush is fine for oven barbecuing.

Potters Get Tourney Bye, Wellsville Faces Crusaders

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

With the first season of basketball play in the new East Liverpool High gym completed, records have been established for future players and teams to shoot at.

Possibly the most difficult record to match will be the 11-0 mark posted by the 1968-69 Potter team.

The scoring marks are not too high. As a team, East Liverpool had a high of 79 points, against Pittsburgh South. The low for the home forces was 47, against Youngstown East. Fifth Avenue was high for the visitors with 54 points and Akron Garfield low with 32.

INDIVIDUALLY, Jerry Christian tossed in 29 points against Steubenville, hitting on 11 of 18 fouls in this game. Christian bagged 11 field goals against Steubenville Central and grabbed 17 rebounds against Akron Garfield. Bill Montgomery hit 11 field goals against Pittsburgh South and attempted 22 against Fifth Avenue.

High for the opponents was John Barley of Pittsburgh South. He scored 25 points, hitting 11 of 14 fouls. George Carter of Fifth Avenue connected on 9 of 18 field goals and Darrell Brown of Westinghouse picked off 13 rebounds.

Fifth Avenue shot 55 per cent, while Youngstown East managed only 23 per cent. The Potter high was 54 per cent against Warren Harding and the low 36 per cent against Westinghouse.

The Pittsburgh South game saw several highs for the Potters, in addition to points scored. They attempted 65 field goals and hit 33 and grabbed 57 rebounds. Conversely, they hit only 43 per cent from the foul line.

Best showing from the foul line was the 84 per cent against Steubenville Central. Most fouls made were 20 against Steubenville, while 31 were attempted against Niles. The Potters were only 9 of 16 from the line against Fifth Ave. They hit only 15 of 40 shots from the field against Youngstown South, and got only 24 rebounds against Steubenville Central. The home team committed 17 personals against Westinghouse and Steubenville, only nine against Youngstown South.

STEUBENVILLE Central holds several opponent marks. The Crusaders hit 94 per cent from the foul line, and connected 16 times. Conversely, they attempted only 28 field goals and hit 10, and took only 21 rebounds. Youngstown South also scored just 10 field goals, and shot 23 per cent. Fifth Ave. scored 24 field goals and shot 55 per cent. Akron Garfield attempted 51 field goals. Westinghouse snagged 44 rebounds. The Bulldogs, Steubenville and Pittsburgh South all attempted 23 foul shots, Niles tried only 10, but Fifth Avenue and Akron Garfield hit only six. Fifth Avenue committed only 12 personals, while Salem and Niles each were called for 23.

East Liverpool was outrebounded three times, by Akron Garfield, Youngstown East and Youngstown South. The Potters were outshot by Westinghouse and Fifth Avenue. Westinghouse, Pittsburgh South, Steubenville Central, Salem and Niles outshot the Potters at the foul line.

But no one outscored East Liverpool.

JU, Toronto In EL Bracket

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool got the bye in the Steubenville AA basketball tournament, and will first see action at 7 p.m. Feb. 27.

Wellsville will meet Steubenville Central in the wind-up of the opening night triple-header at 9 p.m. Feb. 25. The pairings were made at a meeting at All-American Lanes in Steubenville last night.

Last night's meeting, in contrast to last year's acrimonious session, went off smoothly under the direction of Ang Vaccaro. East Liverpool, with a 16-1 mark, was top-seeded and got first choice of positions. Coach Clint McConnell immediately took the bye. Wellsville, with a 9-1 record against AA competition, was second - seeded, and elected to play in the last game.

Steubenville Central got the first pill, and decided to meet Wellsville in the first round. Steubenville got the second choice, and took the other game in the lower bracket. Jefferson Union chose next and took a game in the top bracket. Wintersville, after a long discussion, chose to meet Steubenville in the first round, leaving Toronto to face JU.

The Red Knights and Yellowjackets will clash at 6 p.m. Tuesday to open the tournament. The winner of that game will play East Liverpool Thursday. The Steubenville - Wintersville game and the Wellsville-Central game will complete the opening night's action. The winners of the latter two games will meet in the nightcap Thursday, with the finals at 8 p.m. March 1.

Ticket prices are up $.25 from last year, with student tickets $.75 and adult tickets $1.25. All tickets sold at the Arena will be $1.25. The only reserved seats are box seats, which may be purchased directly from the Arena for $1.50.

Notre Dame Wins, Eyes NCAA Play

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 Thursday night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action Thursday night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arnzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, a sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arnzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

The fledgling San Diego Padres and Montreal Expos are winning their first baseball struggles by apparently circumventing the pension dispute that has split the major league players and sent many of them on strike.

"We're delighted at the response. The players are as anxious to get started as we are," said Eddie Leishman, San Diego general manager, after the Padres' front office indicated that 27 of the team's 35 players have signed or agreed to terms and 23 are expected when spring training begins Saturday.

Among those expected are outfielder Al Ferrara and pitcher Johnny Podres. Shortstop Roberto Pena has indicated he'll report as soon as he clears up visa problems in the Dominican Republic.

The Royals said 28 players arrived in camp Thursday afternoon and about 35 will have signed by the time practice starts today. Sixteen of the 28 have previous major league experience.

One by one, veteran players were either checking into their respective bases or announcing their intention to do so before too long.

Those in uniform Thursday included pitcher Pat Jarvis of Atlanta, shortstop Gene Alley and catcher Jerry May of Pittsburgh, pitchers Pete Richert and Dave Leonhard of Baltimore, all-star catcher Jerry Grote and pitcher Cal Koonce of the New York Mets. Also pitchers John "Blue Moon" Odom and Ed Sprague of Oakland, pitcher Cisco Carlos of the Chicago White Sox, pitcher Clay Carroll of Cincinnati and catcher John Bateman and infielder-outfielder Bob Bailey of Montreal.

"There are some players defecting," admitted Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association. "But I would not call it a stampede. Nor have any of the important players defected. The defections are a factor, however. I won't deny it."

Meanwhile, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the federal government stepped into the dispute while the players presented a new proposal to be considered by the owners today. Details of the proposal were not disclosed.

Kuhn asked both sides to continue meeting daily until the dispute is settled, while, at the request of the players group, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service scheduled a meeting with both parties on Monday.

The defectors had their own reasons.

"I think they can settle this dispute without me," said Bateman. "I always had a weight problem, so I thought it best for me if I came down."

"Baseball is my bread and butter," said Odom, who signed his contract last November. "I've got a house that I just bought and a family to take care of," was the way Carroll put it. "I've got to play."

In another development, the White Sox canceled a scheduled four-game exhibition in Mexico City early next month at a cost of about $30,000.

Weekend Cage Action Includes Tournaments

Tournament play in Ohio sees Beaver Local at Youngstown and action at Struthers and Lake.

Midland has a berth in the WPIAL Tournament clinched, but would like to post a perfect mark in Section 6 play. Monaca, 15-6 overall, is in second place in the league with a 10-3 mark. Midland is 18-3 and 13-0. Midland won 58-52 at Monaca.

In Section 17 play, Western Beaver visits Center and South Side hosts West Allegheny. The Golden Beavers, fresh from a 109-50 triumph over South Side Tuesday, hope to throw a monkey wrench into the works of Center's title plans. The Trojans are tied with Coraopolis with 8-1 marks. John Petchel at 15.0 and Chuck Kelker at 13.1 lead Don Lenz' Golden Beavers. Center won 77-56 earlier.

South Side is 3-16 and has dropped seven in a row. The Rams are 1-8 in league play, tied with Carnegie for the basement. West Allegheny is 5-4 in the loop and 11-10 overall. They nipped South Side 63-62 earlier. Wayne Searight at 10.5 a game paces John Nace's forces.

Beaver Local, 7-10, has won five of its last six, and hopes for a rare tourney win when it meets Rayne, 6-7. The Beavers' hopes depend on the condition of their two stars, Dave Mason and Bob Flint. Dave Mason a severely sprained ankle last week, while Flint is slowly recovering from a knee injury suffered in December. Mason is scoring 21.4 points a game for Lloyd Stockdale's club. Both teams lost close games in Springfield Local, their only common foe. The game is at 6:30, the opener of a tripleheader at the Youngstown South Field House.

Saturday Oak Glen, 5-13, hosts John Marshall. The Monarchs are playing close to .500 ball in their first season as a jointure of Moundsville and Benwood Union. They whipped Oak Glen 74-45 in Moundsville. Jim Carnes, scoring 17.1 a game, leads Jack McDevitt's Golden Bears.

United Local goes into tournament action Saturday night, meeting Waterloo at Lake in Stark County. The Golden Eagles, paced by Jack Mills and Steve Cope, are 10-7 on the year. Waterloo, the fourth-seeded team in the tourney, is 11-6.

The Class A tournament at Struthers continues with Columbiana meeting North Lima and the Lisbon - Lowellville winner facing Pymatuning Valley. Columbiana went 3-15 on the season, while North Lima was 13-5. Bill McMeans paced the Zippers, while Frank Ringel, Jim Hinerman, Gary Gregg and Dave Reash lead the Clippers' balanced attack. North Lima won 75-63 in an earlier meeting.

Potters Get Tourney Bye, Wellsville Faces Crusaders

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

With the first season of basketball play in the new East Liverpool High gym completed, records have been established for future players and teams to shoot at.

Possibly the most difficult record to match will be the 11-0 mark posted by the 1968-69 Potter team.

The scoring marks are not too high. As a team, East Liverpool had a high of 79 points, against Pittsburgh South. The low for the home forces was 47, against Youngstown East. Fifth Avenue was high for the visitors with 54 points and Akron Garfield low with 32.

High for the opponents was John Barley of Pittsburgh South. He scored 25 points, hitting 11 of 14 fouls. George Carter of Fifth Avenue connected on 9 of 18 field goals and Darrell Brown of Westinghouse picked off 13 rebounds.

Fifth Avenue shot 55 per cent, while Youngstown East managed only 23 per cent. The Potter high was 54 per cent against Warren Harding and the low 36 per cent against Westinghouse.

The Pittsburgh South game saw several highs for the Potters, in addition to points scored. They attempted 65 field goals and hit 33 and grabbed 57 rebounds. Conversely, they hit only 43 per cent from the foul line.

Best showing from the foul line was the 84 per cent against Steubenville Central. Most fouls made were 20 against Steubenville, while 31 were attempted against Niles. The Potters were only 9 of 16 from the line against Fifth Ave. They hit only 15 of 40 shots from the field against Youngstown South, and got only 24 rebounds against Steubenville Central. The home team committed 17 personals against Westinghouse and Steubenville, only nine against Youngstown South.

STEUBENVILLE Central holds several opponent marks. The Crusaders hit 94 per cent from the foul line, and connected 16 times. Conversely, they attempted only 28 field goals and hit 10, and took only 21 rebounds. Youngstown South also scored just 10 field goals, and shot 23 per cent. Fifth Ave. scored 24 field goals and shot 55 per cent. Akron Garfield attempted 51 field goals. Westinghouse snagged 44 rebounds. The Bulldogs, Steubenville and Pittsburgh South all attempted 23 foul shots, Niles tried only 10, but Fifth Avenue and Akron Garfield hit only six. Fifth Avenue committed only 12 personals, while Salem and Niles each were called for 23.

East Liverpool was outrebounded three times, by Akron Garfield, Youngstown East and Youngstown South. The Potters were outshot by Westinghouse and Fifth Avenue. Westinghouse, Pittsburgh South, Steubenville Central, Salem and Niles outshot the Potters at the foul line.

But no one outscored East Liverpool.

JU, Toronto In EL Bracket

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool got the bye in the Steubenville AA basketball tournament, and will first see action at 7 p.m. Feb. 27.

Wellsville will meet Steubenville Central in the wind-up of the opening night triple-header at 9 p.m. Feb. 25. The pairings were made at a meeting at All-American Lanes in Steubenville last night.

Last night's meeting, in contrast to last year's acrimonious session, went off smoothly under the direction of Ang Vaccaro. East Liverpool, with a 16-1 mark, was top-seeded and got first choice of positions. Coach Clint McConnell immediately took the bye. Wellsville, with a 9-1 record against AA competition, was second - seeded, and elected to play in the last game.

Steubenville Central got the first pill, and decided to meet Wellsville in the first round. Steubenville got the second choice, and took the other game in the lower bracket. Jefferson Union chose next and took a game in the top bracket. Wintersville, after a long discussion, chose to meet Steubenville in the first round, leaving Toronto to face JU.

The Red Knights and Yellowjackets will clash at 6 p.m. Tuesday to open the tournament. The winner of that game will play East Liverpool Thursday. The Steubenville - Wintersville game and the Wellsville-Central game will complete the opening night's action. The winners of the latter two games will meet in the nightcap Thursday, with the finals at 8 p.m. March 1.

Ticket prices are up $.25 from last year, with student tickets $.75 and adult tickets $1.25. All tickets sold at the Arena will be $1.25. The only reserved seats are box seats, which may be purchased directly from the Arena for $1.50.

Notre Dame Wins, Eyes NCAA Play

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 Thursday night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action Thursday night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arnzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, a sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arnzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

Miller Barber Leads Tucson Golf

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino swears he is off the banquet circuit and back to serious golf, yet he could be in much worse shape than he is today.

The stocky 29-year-old champion from El Paso, Tex., despite trips to New York and Los Angeles already this week, fired a five-under-par 67 in Thursday's first round of the $100,000 Tucson Open.

Barber, the 37-year-old golf course owner from Sherman, Tex., fired a 32-33—65 over the 7,305-yard, par 36-36 Tucson National Golf Club course to take up where he left off in Phoenix.

In Arizona's capital Sunday, the Texan shot a 64 to vault into a three-way tie for second place behind winner Gene Littler.

Off to his best start in 10 years on the tour, Barber has won the rain-shortened Kaiser Open. In his first round here, he carded five birdies and an eagle without going over par on a hole.

Deadlocked at 68 were George Archer, Ron Cerrudo, Rod Funseth and Tucson amateur Ed Updegraff.

Following today's second round, the cut reduced the field to the low 70 and ties for play on Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino finished early and declared, "I'm tired. I'm through with banquet tours. I'm going to play golf. No more banquets for Lee Trevino. I don't even like the food any more."

"I've had nine hours sleep in three days. I'm just happy to be walking."

Lee was in New York for a sports banquet on Monday night. Returning to Tucson on Tuesday, he played nine holes for a practice round and then competed in the pro-amateur on Wednesday.

On completing that round, he flew to Los Angeles for another program at which he was honored. He returned to Tucson at midnight and had to be on the tee at 8:56 a.m.

"Coming out of the chute is tough," he declared. "On that first hole, I missed a 2½-foot putt so bad I had a three-footer coming back."

He went on to card six birdies including a 35-foot putt on the seventh and one of 30 feet on the 18th.

Players Reject Offer, To Make New Demand

By DICK COUCH
Associatel Press Sports Write

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball players were set to deliver a new pension pitch to the club owners today while a federal mediator warmed up in the bullpen and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fidgeted in the dugout.

The players' association, which rejected the owners' latest pension proposal by a 24-0 vote of club representatives, requested another bargaining session today for the purpose of submitting a counter offer.

Meanwhile, Kuhn, the game's new chief executive, expressed distress over the prolonged impasse and asked both sides to continue negotiations on a daily basis until a settlement is reached.

"This delay in resolving the dispute is injurious to baseball in general and the players and the clubs in particular," said the Commissioner from Florida, where most of the established major leaguers are boycotting advance spring training camps.

The owners proposed last weekend to add $200,000 to an original offer a $1 million increase in their pension contribution, bringing the total to $5.3 million. The players are asking for a $6.5 million package, to include a slice of television and broadcasting revenue.

After the player representatives turned down the offer Wednesday, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, suggested the offer be submitted for a vote of the entire association membership. But Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said he didn't feel a time-consuming poll of all the players was justified, considering the player reps' unanimous rejection.

Dick Moss, counsel for the association, released a statement Thursday asking for another meeting with the owners today. In view of the 24-0 rejection of the owners' last offer, the statement read, "it is our intention to make a new proposal for the owners' consideration in an attempt to reach a settlement of this dispute.

"Despite the tremendous amount of publicity which has been given to the signing of a few veteran players of the 402 players who last winter authorized use of their names in support of the policy of not signing and not reporting to training camp, 391 have not signed salary contracts and have not reported to spring training."

Blown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, agreed to step in at the request of the players. But the government's intervention does not represent binding arbitration, sought by the players earlier in the week but turned down by the owners.

OHSAA Will Keep Tourney In Columbus

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state high school basketball tournament is likely to stay at St. John Arena here for a long, long time.

"I can't see the tournament in another city, at least not in the near future," says Harold A. Meyer, the associate commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

Meyer, who takes over as head of the OHSAA when Paul Landis retires this summer, said he gets occasional overtures to move the state classic to Cleveland, Cincinnati or other Ohio cities.

"There isn't another single site in the state that can match the setup we have now at Ohio State's St. John Arena," Meyer noted.

St. John has been the setting for the cage extravaganza for the last dozen years. It has flourished at the gate and in popularity since competition started on the Ohio State campus in 1957.

When the association adopted its current format of four Class AA and four Class A teams in 1953, the tournament was staged at Cincinnati Gardens. Four sessions drew 38,125. In 1954, this time with Cleveland Arena the site, the attendance was 38,654.

The tourney shifted to the Gardens again in 1955 drawing 37,797 while 39,481 paid to see the action in 1956 at Cleveland Arena.

Since coming to St. John, attendance the past five years has been over 55,000 dipping to a low of 51,448 in 1961.

The Gardens seats about 12,000; the Arena also an estimated 12,000 and St. John's can handle about 13,500.

"There's been some talk about moving the tournament to Ohio University's new Convocation Center, which seats 13,080. But the people who make those suggestions haven't told us where we would house the big crowds," Meyer said.

Hotel and motel facilities in the Athens area are completely inadequate at this time for handling the size of crowds we get.

"There would be less tickets to go around if we moved from Columbus. I'd hate to have to figure out a way to cut down on ticket distribution."

Meyer said economics play a major role in determining the site.

"The money we make on the state tournament pays the bills for most of our programs. We pay a very nominal rental charge for St. John Arena and we pay for the help that's needed.

"When we played at Cincinnati and Cleveland, it cost us 25 per cent of the gross. At Ohio State, we pay about half, or 12 per cent of the gross."

Another factor involved is Columbus' central location.

"That means it's easier to get to for most of the 833 schools who have a chance to play in the state tournament.

"We're not opposed to change," Meyer said. "It could come, under the right circumstances. But I can't see it for some time."

Miller Barber Leads Tucson Golf

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino swears he is off the banquet circuit and back to serious golf, yet he could be in much worse shape than he is today.

The stocky 29-year-old champion from El Paso, Tex., despite trips to New York and Los Angeles already this week, fired a five-under-par 67 in Thursday's first round of the $100,000 Tucson Open.

Barber, the 37-year-old golf course owner from Sherman, Tex., fired a 32-33—65 over the 7,305-yard, par 36-36 Tucson National Golf Club course to take up where he left off in Phoenix.

In Arizona's capital Sunday, the Texan shot a 64 to vault into a three-way tie for second place behind winner Gene Littler.

Off to his best start in 10 years on the tour, Barber has won the rain-shortened Kaiser Open. In his first round here, he carded five birdies and an eagle without going over par on a hole.

The weather ranged from sunny cool in the morning to rainy cold in the afternoon.

Deadlocked at 68 were George Archer, Ron Cerrudo, Rod Funseth and Tucson amateur Ed Updegraff.

Following today's second round, the cut reduced the field to the low 70 and ties for play on Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino finished early and declared, "I'm tired. I'm through with banquet tours. I'm going to play golf. No more banquets for Lee Trevino. I don't even like the food any more."

"I've had nine hours sleep in three days. I'm just happy to be walking."

Lee was in New York for a sports banquet on Monday night. Returning to Tucson on Tuesday, he played nine holes for a practice round and then competed in the pro-amateur on Wednesday.

On completing that round, he flew to Los Angeles for another program at which he was honored. He returned to Tucson at midnight and had to be on the tee at 8:56 a.m.

"Coming out of the chute is tough," he declared. "On that first hole, I missed a 2½-foot putt so bad I had a three-footer coming back."

He went on to card six birdies including a 35-foot putt on the seventh and one of 30 feet on the 18th.

Players Reject Offer, To Make New Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball players were set to deliver a new pension pitch to the club owners today while a federal mediator warmed up in the bullpen and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fidgeted in the dugout.

The players' association, which rejected the owners' latest pension proposal by a 24-0 vote of club representatives, requested another bargaining session today for the purpose of submitting a counter offer.

Toomey Heads Entry

Demi-Decathlon Set For Indoor Track Meet

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic decathlon champion Bill Toomey finally got his wish and the spectators for the inaugural U.S. Olympic Invitational indoor track meet will be treated to an extra added attraction tonight —a demi-decathlon.

Toomey, the 30-year-old Olympic record holder, will head a four-man entry into the half a decathlon event, the first in indoor history. The five events parallel the first day's events in Olympic decathlon competition.

"The spectators in Madison Square Garden will get a real thrill watching our very best all-around athletes competing in this demi-decathlon," Toomey said.

"I have always wanted to have such an event on an indoor track program, but this is the first time a meet director has added it. It should be the most interesting event of the night."

The five events will be the shot put, held at NYU earlier today, the 55 meters sprint replacing the 100 meters), the long jump, high jump and the 400 meters.

Five other Olympic champions are among the more than 500 athletes here including high hurdler Wllie Davenport, pole vaulter Bob Seagren, long jumper Bob Beamon and two ladies, Poland's Irena Kirszenstein and Madeline Manning.

Davenport, a 25-year-old, former paratrooper from Southern University, will be aiming for his 13th consecutive victory. He has either tied or broken world marks in seven of his starts over 45, 50, 60, 70 and 120 yards. Tonight he goes in the 55 meters high hurdles.

Seagren, the University of Southern California whiz, with world records, both indoors, 17 feet 6 inches and 17-9 outdoors, will be aiming for the 18 feet horizon.

Beamon, another world record holder who has been hampered by a pulled leg muscle for six weeks, said Thursday, "I'm okay now and will participate." Ralph Boston and Norm Tate, fellow Olympic teammates, will try to stop Beamon in the long jump.

Demi-Decathlon Set For Indoor Track Meet

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic decathlon champion Bill Toomey finally got his wish and the spectators for the inaugural U.S. Olympic Invitational indoor track meet will be treated to an extra added attraction tonight —a demi-decathlon.

Toomey, the 30-year-old Olympic record holder, will head a four-man entry into the half a decathlon event, the first in indoor history. The five events parallel the first day's events in Olympic decathlon competition.

"The spectators in Madison Square Garden will get a real thrill watching our very best all-around athletes competing in this demi-decathlon," Toomey said.

"I have always wanted to have such an event on an indoor track program, but this is the first time a meet director has added it. It should be the most interesting event of the night."

The five events will be the shot put, held at NYU earlier today, the 55 meters sprint replacing the 100 meters), the long jump, high jump and the 400 meters.

Five other Olympic champions are among the more than 500 athletes here including high hurdler Wlie Davenport, pole vaulter Bob Seagren, long jumper Bob Beamon and two ladies, Poland's Irena Kirszenstein and Madeline Manning.

Davenport, a 25-year-old, former paratrooper from Southern University, will be aiming for his 13th consecutive victory. He has either tied or broken world marks in seven of his starts over 45, 50, 60, 70 and 120 yards. Tonight he goes in the 55 meters high hurdles.

Seagren, the University of Southern California whiz, with world records, both indoors, 17 feet 6 inches and 17-9 outdoors, will be aiming for the 18 feet horizon.

Beamon, another world record holder who has been hampered by a pulled leg muscle for six weeks, said Thursday, "I'm okay now and will participate." Ralph Boston and Norm Tate, fellow Olympic teammates, will try to stop Beamon in the long jump.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

What Does It Have To Say?

It is said that when the first teephone cable was laid across the English Channel, and it was suggested that the Queen of England place the first call to the Queen of Belgium, someone worriedly asked: "Suppose they have nothing to say?"

Cecil Smith

Television has been going along for nearly 20 years now. (The saturation level when TV became a national habit was pinpointed at the Republican National Convention of 1952) and much of the worry about this electronic colossus is that most of the time it has nothing to say.

THE ARGUMENT soon may be academic. There is little question that at the moment we are on the threshold of a breakthrough in electronic communications which within a very few years will make television as we now know it as antiquated as a Model T Ford.

The report last Sunday by the Public Broadcast Laboratory (via the National Educational Television Network) was concerned mostly with the current squabbles over cable television (CATV) and the guidelines laid down for its mushrooming development by the Federal Communications Commission.

What we saw primarily were various monolithic institutions butting heads before a notoriously ineffective agency.

BUT THREADING through the program was much more than what commentator Edward P. Morgan called "the gold rush" to tap the vast CATV market. There was the sense of the first tentative steps into a world of communication services that hardly has been scratched.

Leaks from the Presidential Task Force on Communications indicate that in its massive report, submitted last December, road maps to these new technological developments are included, and PBL took the position that the presidential report should be made public to afford an open dialog.

Certain developments are already before us. CBS beginning next week will hold its first public demonstrations of its Electronic Video Recording cassettes, which, like musical tapes, can be plugged into TV sets to offer you at home a movie, a variety program, a Royal Shakespeare play.

PETER HALL said a primary consideration of the Royal Shakespeare's association with CBS is in putting classical plays on cassettes which could be marketable, like classical records, over decades.

In development are computer memory banks in which programs can be stored and ordered sent to your set at a time when you conveniently want to see them. Former FCC Chairman Newton Minow, the "vast wasteland" man, says he believes this will be the true beginning of pay-TV because obviously you would be charged for such service.

What is of primary importance is the promise of diversity — many sources of information, education and diversion. Most of this country has been locked into three network sources, like as peas and eloquently described as tweedledee, tweedledum and tweedledumdum.

CATV ARGUES that it can unlock many more sources, offering 20 channels or more, programming, according to FCC direction, much of its own material, particularly in local public service.

The idea is to broaden the spectrum, use this wonderful gadget to bring man closer to himself and the actual world he inhabits rather than isolate him as a Nielsen number in deodorized never-neverland. The truck started operating this week, covering a local speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But the cable systems are only the beginning. There's promise of technological areas uncharted as yet. What it will mean to the entertainment business here or to the scope of availability of knowledge is anybody's guess. But there's no guess that it's coming.

Goodman Ace, who loved radio, used to say: "I thought if I left the television turned off it would go away." He sighed. "But it didn't."

Governor Continues To Plug School Plans

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes continued to plug his vocational and technical education program Thursday, saying such schools should be located in developing industrial areas.

Speaking at an industrial appreciation banquet, he said industrial progress depends on adequate job training for the young and continued success in research programs.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

What Does It Have To Say?

It is said that when the first teephone cable was laid across the English Channel, and it was suggested that the Queen of England place the first call to the Queen of Belgium, someone worriedly asked: "Suppose they have nothing to say?"

Cecil Smith

Television has been going along for nearly 20 years now. (The saturation level when TV became a national habit was pinpointed at the Republican National Convention of 1952) and much of the worry about this electronic colossus is that most of the time it has nothing to say.

THE ARGUMENT soon may be academic. There is little question that at the moment we are on the threshold of a breakthtrough in electronic communications which within a very few years will make television as we now know it as antiquated as a Model T Ford.

The report last Sunday by the Public Broadcast Laboratory (via the National Educational Television Network) was concerned mostly with the current squabbles over cable television (CATV) and the guidelines laid down for its mushrooming development by the Federal Communications Commission.

What we saw primarily were various monolithic institutions butting heads before a notoriously ineffective agency.

BUT THREADING through the program was much more than what commentator Edward P. Morgan called "the gold rush" to tap the vast CATV market. There was the sense of the first tentative steps into a world of communication services that hardly has been scratched.

Leaks from the Presidential Task Force on Communications indicate that in its massive report, submitted last December, road maps to these new technological developments are included, and PBL took the position that the presidential report should be made public to afford an open dialog.

Certain developments are already before us. CBS beginning next week will hold its first public demonstrations of its Electronic Video Recording cassettes, which, like musical tapes, can be plugged into TV sets to offer you at home a movie, a variety program, a Royal Shakespeare play.

PETER HALL said a primary consideration of the Royal Shakespeare's association with CBS is in putting classical plays on cassettes which could be marketable, like classical records, over decades.

In development are computer memory banks in which programs can be stored and ordered sent to your set at a time when you conveniently want to see them. Former FCC Chairman Newton Minow, the "vast wasteland" man, says he believes this will be the true beginning of pay-TV because obviously you would be charged for such service.

What is of primary importance is the promise of diversity — many sources of information, education and diversion. Most of this country has been locked into three network sources, like as peas and eloquently described as tweedledee, tweedledum and tweedledumdum.

CATV ARGUES that it can unlock many more sources, offering 20 channels or more, programming, according to FCC direction, much of its own material, particularly in local public service.

The idea is to broaden the spectrum, use this wonderful gadget to bring man closer to himself and the actual world he inhabits rather than isolate him as a Nielsen number in deodorized never-neverland. The truck started operating this week, covering a local speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But the cable systems are only the beginning. There's promise of technological areas uncharted as yet. What it will mean to the entertainment business here or to the scope of availability of knowledge is anybody's guess. But there's no guess that it's coming.

Goodman Ace, who loved radio, used to say: "I thought if I left the television turned off it would go away." He sighed. "But it didn't."

Governor Continues To Plug School Plans

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes continued to plug his vocational and technical education program Thursday, saying such schools should be located in developing industrial areas.

Speaking at an industrial appreciation banquet, he said industrial progress depends on adequate job training for the young and continued success in research programs.

News Of Area Residents In Armed Forces

Two local servicemen who were graduated from East Liverpool High School together have met twice briefly while serving with different units in separate locations in Vietnam.

Spec. 4 Harold Watson and Spec. 4 Richard Kidder, both of the class of 1967, "were on a chopper in flight when they bumped, back-to-back" a letter from Watson related.

Watson is stationed with the 196th Infantry Brigade in the Que Son Valley. Kidder serves with the 8th Support Battallion near ChuLai.

Ronald Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virl Stephen of Toronto RD 2, has been promoted to specialist four while serving with the 60th Artillery near Pleiku, Vietnam.

Stephen has been in Vietnam since last November. He is a 1967 graduate of Stanton High School and was employed as an inspector in the strip steel department of Weirton Steel before entering the service.

Newell Enlistee Attains Highest Score In Tests

A Newell woman who has enlisted in the WACS achieved the "highest score ever recorded in the history of intelligence tests given at Cleveland," according to Sgt. Robert Dusock, local recruiter.

Miss Nila Jo Bailey, 28, of 525 Grant St., attained 153 out of a possibe 154 score on the tests, Dusock said.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey of Grant St., she enlisted to advance her education as a dental assistant. She was graduated from Wells High School in Newell and attended Ohio University at Athens. She was employed locally as a dental assistant for nine years.

Miss Bailey was active in the Ceramic Playrites, the local theater group, and was known in the area for pantomime performances at service clubs and other organizations.

Following basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., she will train as a warrant officer, Dusock said.

While in Vietnam, he served in communications with the 90th Infantry Division at Dong Tam. He has received an Army Commendation medal for duties performed during his overseas tour.

Blast Kills 2 And Injures 7 In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — A powerful explosion shattered Jerusalem's biggest supermarket today as about 200 shoppers were stocking up for the start of the Sabbath at sundown. Two university students were killed and an Australian major and seven women were wounded. Three of the women were reported in serious condition.

Police Minister Eliahu Sasson said the "vile attack" was obviously linked to the Arab guerrilla attack Tuesday on an Israeli airliner in Zurich, Switzerland.

"Somebody standing next to me was virtually blown to bits," said Yosef Polishuk, who worked behind the meat counter. He said the explosion blew him over.

In the supermarket building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was broken glass and groceries were splattered all over the walls and floors. All the windows were blown out.

Another package of about two and a half pounds of explosives was found in a candy box on the wine counter, police said. It was timed to go off an hour after the first explosion.

An Arab employe of the supermarket was held for questioning.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

Senate Okay Of A-Treaty Is Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has wound up hearings on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty with all signs pointing to approval of that pet administration project but mounting trouble for another.

Discussion of the treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons was all but forgotten Thursday as critics used committee hearings as a forum to oppose the Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

They were unsuccessful, however, in trying to get Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to guarantee the Sentinel program will not be resumed without an all-out effort to obtain agreement with the Soviet Union that neither side will build such defenses.

Laird, although testifying in favor of the treaty, told the committee "I personally favor going forward with such a system."

In spite of the critics, charges that resumption of the Sentinel program would violate provisions of the treaty, the committee ended its hearings Thursday with all indications pointing toward its approval of the pact sometime next week.

The committee already has approved it once, reporting it to the floor last session when it was never brought to a vote.

As did secretary of state William P. Rogers two days earlier, Laird said he did not believe the treaty's article calling for good-faith negotiations on nuclear disarmament was a bar to missile defense deployment.

During his testimony on the treaty, Laird noted at several points that Congress had approved he Sentinel program under the Johnson administration as a defense against Red China.

But it is now widely viewed in Congress as the possible beginning of a thick system, costing up to $60 billion, that would be deployed against Soviet missiles.

Musuraca Gets Navy Medal For Service In Viet

Marine Sgt. R. Scott Musuraca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Musuraca of St. Clair Ave., has been awarded the Navy Achievement Medal "for duties and achievements" while with the 4th Battalion, 12th Marines in Vietnam.

While there he served as a liaison non-commissioned officer with the 12th Army of the Republic of Vietnam Artillery Battalion, operations chief of Battery "M" and watch chief of the Centralized Fire Direction Center.

Musuraca was graduated from East Liverpool High School and attended Dayton University. He served 20 months in Vietnam. He underwent basic training at Parris Island, S. C., and further training at Ft. Sill, Okla. He also was stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and in Puerta Rica.

Colt Slates $40 Million For Crucible

Colt Industries officials say they invest almost three-fourths of total capital spending this year in the Crucible Steel Co divisions. The New York-based firm will put $40 million into capital improvements, compared with $30 million in 1968.

Crucible research and development in 1969 will involve some $3 million. Colt Chairman George A. Strichman said this is as "high a ratio of R & D to current sales as there is in Crucible's field."

"We viewed Crucible as a specialty materials company before the 1968 merger—one of the important innovators, not as a steelmaker," Strichman said.

The firm's "commodity steels"—the low alloy and specialty carbon steels selling at $160 to $200 a ton—apparently were the least important part of its business, representing "only about one - quarter" of total dollar sales, Strichman said, while the stainless and high alloys (the latter commanding between $1 and $12 a pound) were Crucible's chief attraction.

Strichman hailed Crucible advances in "particle metallurgy," titanium and a continuous stainless steel tubing — over a half - mile in coils — which he called "the first real challenge to copper and copper-base tubing in many industries."

He indicated the new executive suite—Crucible's own former corporate headquarters is disappearing from Downtown—does not intend to starve the new property.

Colt President David I. Margolis also said the firm projects annual 15 to 20 per cent gains in per share earnings—"We expect to measure up to that in 1969." Colt earned $3.74 a share in 1968, $2.83 in '67.

Autopsy Decision Due On Novelist's Wife

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Martin G. Dumont said a decision would be made today on whether to autopsy the body of Mrs. Marjorie Uris, found shot to death near the mountain home she shared with her husband, novelist Leon Uris.

Dumont said, "It appears to be a suicide."

Uris, author of the best-selling "Exodus" and "Topaz" talked briefly with authorities called in after the finding of the body by a passerby Thursday, then went into seclusion.

Peru Rejects U.S. Damaged Ship Claim

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has refused to accept a U.S. government claim for $50,000 damages to the tuna ship San Juan, a source close to the Foreign Office said.

The San Juan was riddled with machine-gun bullets Feb. 14 when a Peruvian gunboat attacked a small American fishing fleet more than 25 miles off the Peruvian coast and seized one of the boats.

Sgt. David Bird Receives Medal For Duty In Viet

Sgt. David H. Bird, son of Vernon Bird of Wellsville and the late Mrs. Eileen Ruhe Bird, has been awarded a Bronze Star Medal for outstanding meritorious service in connection with ground operations against the enemy while in Vietnam.

Bird, who has been chosen as an aide to Lt. Gen. John Stilwell, served in Vietnam from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1968. He has been commended for "application of his extensive knowledge" and "untiring efforts and professional ability" in assisting in ground operations.

Bird, who resides with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dietz of 205 California Ave., Chester, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Ruhe of Alpha St. He has received 11 other various medals, the family said.

News Of Area Residents In Armed Forces

Two local servicemen who were graduated from East Liverpool High School together have met twice briefly while serving with different units in separate locations in Vietnam.

Spec. 4 Harold Watson and Spec. 4 Richard Kidder, both of the class of 1967, "were on a chopper in flight when they bumped, back-to-back" a letter from Watson related.

A similar incident occurred several days later on another "chopper," he wrote.

Watson is stationed with the 196th Infantry Brigade in the Que Son Valley. Kidder serves with the 8th Support Battallion near ChuLai.

Ronald Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virl Stephen of Toronto RD 2, has been promoted to specialist four while serving with the 60th Artillery near Pleiku, Vietnam.

Stephen has been in Vietnam since last November. He is a 1967 graduate of Stanton High School and was employed as an inspector in the strip steel department of Weirton Steel before entering the service.

Newell Enlistee Attains Highest Score In Tests

A Newell woman who has enlisted in the WACS achieved the "highest score ever recorded in the history of intelligence tests given at Cleveland," according to Sgt. Robert Dusock, local recruiter.

Miss Nila Jo Bailey, 28, of 525 Grant St., attained 153 out of a possibe 154 score on the tests, Dusock said.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey of Grant St., she enlisted to advance her education as a dental assistant. She was graduated from Wells High School in Newell and attended Ohio University at Athens. She was employed locally as a dental assistant for nine years.

Miss Bailey was active in the Ceramic Playrites, the local theater group, and was known in the area for pantomime performances at service clubs and other organizations.

Following basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., she will train as a warrant officer, Dusock said.

While in Vietnam, he served in communications with the 90th Infantry Division at Dong Tam. He has received an Army Commendation medal for duties performed during his overseas tour.

Blast Kills 2 And Injures 7 In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — A powerful explosion shattered Jerusalem's biggest supermarket today as about 200 shoppers were stocking up for the start of the Sabbath at sundown. Two university students were killed and an Ausiralian major and seven women were wounded. Three of the women were reported in serious condition.

Police Minister Eliahu Sasson said the "vile attack" was obviously linked to the Arab guerrilla attack Tuesday on an Israeli airliner in Zurich, Switzerland.

"Somebody standing next to me was virtually blown to bits," said Yosef Polishuk, who worked behind the meat counter. He said the explosion blew him over.

In the supermarket building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was broken glass and groceries were splattered all over the walls and floors. All the windows were blown out.

Another package of about two and a half pounds of explosives was found in a candy box on the wine counter, police said. It was timed to go off an hour after the first explosion.

An Arab employe of the supermarket was held for questioning.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

Senate Okay Of A-Treaty Is Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has wound up hearings on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty with all signs pointing to approval of that pet administration project but mounting trouble for another.

Discussion of the treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons was all but forgotten Thursday as critics used committee hearings as a forum to oppose the Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

They were unsuccessful, however, in trying to get Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to guarantee the Sentinel program will not be resumed without an all-out effort to obtain agreement with the Soviet Union that neither side will build such defenses.

Laird, although testifying in favor of the treaty, told the committee "I personally favor going forward with such a system."

In spite of the critics, charges that resumption of the Sentinel program would violate provisions of the treaty, the committee ended its hearings Thursday with all indications pointing toward its approval of the pact sometime next week.

The committee already has approved it once, reporting it to the floor last session when it was never brought to a vote.

As did secretary of state William P. Rogers two days earlier, Laird said he did not believe the treaty's article calling for good-faith negotiations on nuclear disarmament was a bar to missile defense deployment.

During his testimony on the treaty, Laird noted at several points that Congress had approved he Sentinel program under the Johnson administration as a defense against Red China.

But it is now widely viewed in Congress as the possible beginning of a thick system, costing up to $60 billion, that would be deployed against Soviet missiles.

Musuraca Gets Navy Medal For Service In Viet

Marine Sgt. R. Scott Musuraca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Musuraca of St. Clair Ave., has been awarded the Navy Achievement Medal "for duties and achievements" while with the 4th Battalion, 12th Marines in Vietnam.

While there he served as a liaison non-commissioned officer with the 12th Army of the Republic of Vietnam Artillery Battalion, operations chief of Battery "M" and watch chief of the Centralized Fire Direction Center.

Musuraca was graduated from East Liverpool High School and attended Dayton University. He served 20 months in Vietnam. He underwent basic training at Parris Island, S. C., and further training at Ft. Sill, Okla. He also was stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and in Puerta Rica.

Colt Slates $40 Million For Crucible

Colt Industries officials say they invest almost three-fourths of total capital spending this year in the Crucible Steel Co. divisions. The New York-based firm will put $40 million into capital improvements, compared with $30 million in 1968.

Crucible research and development in 1969 will involve some $3 million. Colt Chairman George A. Strichman said this is as "high a ratio of R & D to current sales as there is in Crucible's field."

"We viewed Crucible as a specialty materials company before the 1968 merger—one of the important innovators, not as a steelmaker," Strichman said.

The firm's "commodity steels"—the low alloy and specialty carbon steels selling at $160 to $200 a ton—apparently were the least important part of its business, representing "only about one - quarter" of total dollar sales, Strichman said, while the stainless and high alloys (the latter commanding between $1 and $12 a pound) were Crucible's chief attraction.

Strichman hailed Crucible advances in "particle metallurgy," titanium and a continuous stainless steel tubing — over a half - mile in coils— which he called "the first real challenge to copper and copper-base tubing in many industries."

He indicated the new executive suite—Crucible's own former corporate headquarters is disappearing from Downtown —does not intend to starve the new property.

Colt President David I. Margolis also said the firm projects annual 15 to 20 per cent gains in per share earnings— "We expect to measure up to that in 1969." Colt earned $3.74 a share in 1968, $2.83 in '67.

Autopsy Decision Due On Novelist's Wife

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Martin G. Dumont said a decision would be made today on whether to autopsy the body of Mrs. Marjorie Uris, found shot to death near the mountain home she shared with her husband, novelist Leon Uris.

Dumont said, "It appears to be a suicide."

Uris, author of the best-selling "Exodus" and "Topaz" talked briefly with authorities called in after the finding of the body by a passerby Thursday, then went into seclusion.

Peru Rejects U.S. Damaged Ship Claim

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has refused to accept a U.S. government claim for $50,000 damages to the tuna ship San Juan, a source close to the Foreign Office said.

The San Juan was riddled with machine-gun bullets Feb. 14 when a Peruvian gunboat attacked a small American fishing fleet more than 25 miles off the Peruvian coast and seized one of the boats.

Sgt. David Bird Receives Medal For Duty In Viet

Sgt. David H. Bird, son of Vernon Bird of Wellsville and the late Mrs. Eileen Ruhe Bird, has been awarded a Bronze Star Medal for outstanding meritorious service in connection with ground operations against the enemy while in Vietnam.

Bird, who has been chosen as an aide to Lt. Gen. John Stilwell, served in Vietnam from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1968. He has been commended for "application of his extensive knowledge" and "untiring efforts and professional ability" in assisting in ground operations.

Bird, who resides with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dietz of 205 California Ave., Chester, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Ruhe of Alpha St. He has received 11 other various medals, the family said.

Junior Editors Quiz on CRYSTAL

QUESTION: What is the difference between crystal and glass?

ANSWER: Crystals and glass look much alike. Both a crystal — such as we find in a mineral like quartz — and a piece of glass, which is generally a man-made substance, are hard, smooth, shiny. It is possible to look through them; they are transparent. But these two substances are different in structure. In 1912, the German scientist von Laue found a way to use x-rays to penetrate the inside of a crystal. It was then discovered that the way the atoms were arranged inside explained the outside crystal shape. These atoms, as suggested at upper left, are lined up in neat, orderly rows, thus producing the sharp faces or outside planes of the crystal. In contrast, the atoms inside glass are scattered around at random, without a definite pattern. This means that glass is not only different from crystal, but acts differently. Heat a crystal, like ice, and it will turn to water all at once. But glass, when heated, becomes flexible only gradually. It can be bent, and when cooled, will stay bent. This is how so many useful glass objects are produced.

(Lisa Yount of Connelly Springs, N.C., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Junior Editors Quiz on CRYSTAL

QUESTION: What is the difference between crystal and glass?

ANSWER: Crystals and glass look much alike. Both a crystal — such as we find in a mineral like quartz — and a piece of glass, which is generally a man-made substance, are hard, smooth, shiny. It is possible to look through them; they are transparent. But these two substances are different in structure. In 1912, the German scientist von Laue found a way to use x-rays to penetrate the inside of a crystal. It was then discovered that the way the atoms were arranged inside explained the outside crystal shape. These atoms, as suggested at upper left, are lined up in neat, orderly rows, thus producing the sharp faces or outside planes of the crystal. In contrast, the atoms inside glass are scattered around at random, without a definite pattern. This means that glass is not only different from crystal, but acts differently. Heat a crystal, like ice, and it will turn to water all at once. But glass, when heated, becomes flexible only gradually. It can be bent, and when cooled, will stay bent. This is how so many useful glass objects are produced.

Amendment Action Set On Moore's 2 Tax Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — More than one dozen amendments are pending today to revisions of Gov. Arch A. Moore's two tax bills now at the voting stage in the West Virginia Senate.

The two bills, designed to raise some $41 million in revenue, were slightly changed by the Senate Finance Committee this week.

Also scheduled in the Senate is a speech by Mrs. Virginia Mae Brown, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and a former resident of Charleston.

Meanwhile, the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill that would give the state mines director the power to order installation of emergency telephone systems in certain underground mines.

THE bill calls for use of heat and shock resistant telephone communications in underground working sections more than 1,500 feet from the main portal.

Several other House-approved bills have been sent to the Senate including proposals to:

Raise the authorized salary range of the supervising inspector in the mines department's oil and gas division from $5,600-$8,000 to $7,000 - $11,000 and the salary range for other oil and gas inspectors from $5,600-$7,400 to $6,000-$9,400.

Designate the black bear as a game animal and place it under protection of the game laws, and add golden rainbow trout, striped bass, northern pike and channel and flathead catfish to the "game fish" list.

The oil and gas inspector salary bill was passed previously by the Senate but has been sent back for concurrence on a House amendment.

SENATE - approved bills, in turn sent to the House for approval include measures to:

Outlaw use of the riot control substance commonly called chemical MACE by anyone except law enforcement officers, National Guardsmen on state duty and "persons acting to protect themselves or others from actual or threatened harm or to prevent the commission of a crime."

A bill to meet the federal requirements for a proposed West Virginia-Ohio Air Pollution Control Compact was approved by the Senate and sent to the governor.

But the Senate defeated 24-8 a bill that would have given a trial judge discretion to decide whether jointly indicted persons would be tried together or separately.

THE tax bills up for passage in the Senate today would provide the first year of financing for a spending program that includes a $1,000 raise for public school teachers.

Gov. Moore told a news conference Wednesday the proposals recommended for passage by the finance committee are "very pleasing" to him.

The proposals generally call for suspension — for one year— of certain consumer sales tax exemptions of purchase of goods and services for use in manufacturing, contracting and mining.

Raw materials are not included in the proposals.

Included in the amendments offered to the proposals are several sponsored by Minority Leader John E. Carrigan of Marshall County.

CARRIGAN said his amendments are aimed mainly at sharpening definitions of exempt materials to minimize disputes over interpretation of the proposals.

The mining bill approved by the House is designed to provide emergency communications when a mine's primary telephone system is put out of operation by an explosion or an accident.
